NO SMOOTH ROAD FOR SOLDIER BONUS

Few If Any of Bill's Supporters Hope for Upper Chamber's Decision Before the Conventions.

BY HUDSON HAWLEY,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 30.—Although the soldier bonus bill will go to the senate Monday for reference to the finance committee in time for action before the proposed recess or adjournmment Saturday, there are few if any of its supporters who hope for a decision on it before the conventions.

In fact, it has been stated on excellent authority that the republican leaders in the senate have received a strong hint from Will Hays, chairman of the party's national committee, to the effect that they had better mark time "until the convention shall have spoken."

Whatever the effect of their marking time, during the coming week or after they convene, it is certain that the bonus bill is going to have hard sledding in the senate. Although Senator Lodge, the majority leader, has been quoted as favoring the bonus proposition and has predicted that the senate would concur in favorable action by the house, it is by no means certain that the republican majority will stand without hitching when its approbation is asked for the bill in its present form. Opposition to the bonus among senate republicans has been growing steadily during the past few weeks, and found voice a few days ago in a ringing anti-bonus and anti-American Legion speech on the floor by Sherman, of Illinois.

On Democratic Side.

On the democratic side, the prospect is no brighter for bonus support. Last week, Thomas, of Colorado, served notice that he and three other democrats intended to fight the bill to death on the floor—and those who recall Thomas' recent filibuster against the dyestuffs bill can realize that it is no idle threat. Passage of the bonus bill under a gag rule such as the house adopted Saturday would be impossible and well-nigh unthinkable in the upper chamber.

Who his three democratic confederates in the proposed anti-bonus filibuster would be, Thomas declined to say, on being questioned; but from previous utterances and known attitudes, it is supposed that he relies on King, of Utah, who recently made an anti-bonus speech in New York; Pomerene, of Ohio, who recently sent anti-bonus messages to civic bodies in Cincinnati, and Myers, of Montana, who spoke at length against the grant to ex-service men Saturday, while the house was debating the bill.

Carter Glass, of Virginia, former secretary of the treasury, is expected to support his successor in that office, Secretary Houston, in opposing the bonus, and it is quite likely that many out-and-out administration democrats in the senate, having Houston's and Secretary of War Baker's registered opposition as guides, will follow suit.

As Measure Now Stands.

But even if all signs should fail, and the bonus eventually pass the senate—and eventually is the only word that can be used for the "why not now?" regnant holds no charms for the most deliberative of deliberative bodies—the fight will not have bnn won, by a long shot. It is taken for granted that under no circumstances can senate approval be gained for the bonus bill as it stands, particularly for the revenue raising features, and possibly the cash bonus alternative may be thrown out as well. The taxes on stock and grain exchange transactions and on real estate transfers, among others, are sure to draw heavy fire, while it is entirely within the range of possibility that the sales taxes proposal, over which the republican caucus in the house split wide open more than a month ago, may be revived in the senate finance committee and rewritten into the bill.

In that case a long-drawn-out bickering between senate and house conferees would be inevitable; in fact, in the case of the inability of the house conferees to agree with those of the senate, and their reporting back to the house, it might lead the house to reverse its vote on Saturday. In any event, a bicker - session of considerable length between conferees on the bill may be put down as a certainty.

Two ex-Solders Vote Nay.

An analysis of Saturday's vote in the house shows that the seven ex-soldier representatives were not polled as a unit on behalf of their former comrades in the service. The bolters were Tom Connally and Marvin Jones, ex-buck privates both, and both from Texas. The other five—Caldwell, of New York; Royal Johnson, of South Dakota; Albert Johnson, of Washington; Milligan, of Mississippi, and Swope, of Kentucky—registerred for the bill as reported out by the ways and means committee.

LABOR CONDUCTING POLITICAL DRIVES WITHIN 32 STATES

Washington, May 30.—Labor is conducting intensive political campaigns in thirty-two states, where there are senatorial elections, according to the non-partisan political campaign commitee of the American Federation.

In addition, local campaigns are under way in the remaining states, it was said.

Records of senators in the thirty-two states have been placed in the hands of union bodies, showing the senators voted on questions which labor considers vital to its interests. Similar work is being carried on in important congressional districts in fifteen states.

Here are states where labor is taking part in senatorial campaigns:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

FEW RAIL WORKERS WALK OUT AT CHICAGO

Chicago, May 30.—Although officers of the United Enginemen's association, a seceding railroad union, had announced that an extensive walkout of enginemen, firemen and switchmen would take place in the Chicago terminal district, heads of railroads said that fewer than 200 men had quit work.

About 150 employees of the Chicago Junction railroad were reported to have walked out, while twenty-five were reported out on the Chicago and Alton. Union officials said the walk out was a protest against the refusal of the railway labor board to grant a hearing to their representatives, and the actin of the railroads in cancelling seniority rights of those who struck in April. Work was being carried on as usual, road officials said, although the strike had interfered with the movement of freight to some extent.

Atlantan and Girl Who Tried Rescue Drowned Sunday

E. H. Jewett, of 12 Ponce de Leon Avenue, and Brave Savannah Woman Meet Death at St. Simon's.

Brunswick, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Two people were drowned and more had a very narrow escape on St. Simon's island this afternoon as the result of one of the victims venturing out too far while in bathing. Those drowned were E. H. Jewett, of 12 Ponce de Leon place, Atlanta, and a Miss Finch, of Savannah, whose given name could not be secured tonight.

According to information received over the telephone from the island, the two drowned persons were swimming around a dangerous point on the island when Mr. Jewett ventured out too far and was taken by the eddy. Miss Finch, being an expert swimmer, started out to the assistance of her friend. She reached him safely but she was so exhausted that she chould render no aid.

In the meantime, four persons standing on the beach started out with a small rowboat to rescue the couple, but just as they were in a short distance of the two people, who were stil above the water, the small boat capsized and the four were plunged into the water. The couple who had fought bravely were exhausted, and people on the beach unable to render assistance, saw them sink.

The four persons in the small boat had a very close call, but were rescued after a steamboat tied to the pier had rushed to the assistance and picked them up one by one. The bodies of the unfortunate couple had not been recovered at dark, but a watch will be kept along the beach throughout the night.

Well Known Here.

According to information secured from G. C. Jewett, well-known Atlanta traveling salesman, and brother of E. H. Jewett, Sunday night the drowned man had gone to St. Simon's to complete arrangements for his brother's family to come there to spend the summer.

"We had rented a cottage for the summer," stated G. C. Jewett, "and I and my family were to go there and spend the season with my brother. I received a letter from him last night telling me that he had gotten the cottage in good shape and was awaiting our coming with much enthusiasm."

E. H. Jewett, who was, up until a short time ago, in charge of the poultry department of a local wholesale produce concern, had begun traveling just before his death. He had many friends here and was widely known. He was 49 years of age.

G. C. Jewett was unable to give any information as to the identity of Miss Finch.

Enough of War To Suit Germany For All Eternity

Chancellor Mueller Says "No Fool, Crowned or Uncrowned, Shall Drag Germany Into War of Revenge."

Berlin, May 30.—Speaking at a somewhat stormy meeting in Munich on Saturday, Chancellor Mueller declared to a cheering crowd that on June 6, the day of the German presidential election, it would be Germany's business to attest the fact "that she has had enough of war for all eternity and that no fool, crowned or uncrowned, shall drag Germany into a war of revenge," according to a report of his address in The Tageblatt today.

"Foreigners," continued Dr. Mueller, "have told me they could not believe it possible that the frame of mind of the German people could be changed in so short a time, but after the Kapp coup even the entente military officers admitted to me their conviction that we had become truly democratic."

The chancellor referred to the coming conference at Spa as the first ray of hope which Germany could entertain that the extremists realize the impossibility of keeping Germany down economically and politically and at the same time demanding extreme amounts in reparation.

Wife, Jailed Here, Refuses to Return With Husband

Charged with deserting her husband in Savannah because "he was too good to her" and coming to Atlanta with Grady Clanton, her alleged affinity, Mrs. Nelson L. Clark, pretty young woman, 24 years old, was arrested at the instance of the husband in a rooming house at 134 Ivy street about 3 o'clock Sunday morning by Lieutenant of Detectives Robert L. Waggoner, James A. Doyal and H. T. Brown and locked behind the bars at police station. Clanton had not been apprehended by the officers up to a late hour Sunday night.

Two little children—Martha and "Bobbie"—who were with Mrs. Clark, were allowed to remain with the mother in the matron's ward at headquarters Sunday morning. They were taken to the home of Mrs. Clark's sister by the father Sunday night, after she had steadfastly refused to return with her husband.

Mrs. Clark's sister came to police station and tried to persuade her to return home with her husband for her own sake, for the children's sake and for the sake of her relatives, but she refused, declaring "I love Clanton better than I do my own life and I could never be happy without him." She is said to have told the officers that her husband was too good to her and that she was lonesome.

G. O. P. WAITING PENROSE'S SIGN

Even on Sick Bed, Pennsylvania Senator Is the Strongest Figure in Party--Penrose Hasn't Made Up His Mind.

By Mark Sullivan,

Wilmington, Del., May 30.—(Special.)—If you can detach yourself a moment from statistics of delegations and all the other convention details that press increasingly upon you, and look for a brief pause at what is picturesque and human in the picture, your imagination is sure to rest on Penrose.

He sits in his old-fashioned house in the old-fashioned residence district of Philadelphia, a sick old bachelor, descendant of all that is implied by an old Philadelphia family. The room where visitors wait their turn, and the one where Penrose's sprawling bulk rests in a chair that suggests a throne, but is really only a special adaptation to his illness. Both have the jostling incongruities of a home where past generations of feminine taste have been a little submerged by bachelor disorder, hunting trophies from the Rockies crowding old mahogany into the corners.

All Go to Penrose.

To this house the politicans go; they talk; they listen and they leave. At the steps, reporters waylay them. At the hotel the telephone girl tells them "Indianapolis is on the long distance." Some other politician of lesser degree, not favored with an invitation, wants to find out what the "big fellow" said, and they discuss very shadings of his words in the hope of getting a hint to guide them in their own decision. It is no rhetorical exaggeration, but literal fact, that men have traveled hundreds of miles to talk with a man who talked with Penrose. Men speak of another man who has "been to Spruce street" with something of the reverent awe that marks a pilgrim who has been to Mecca.

To a degree this is sentimental Some men go to see the sick Penrose and pay him a generous deference, who always stood up against Penrose in his prime; but for the most part the visitors are of the "old guard," fellow leaders who shared the high command with Penrose at previous conventions, and minor staff officers from the smaller states now lookng for instructions or, at least, for inspiration. Penrose, even Penrose sick is by far the biggest figure the old guard has felt in the way of leadership.

Only G. O. P. Boss Left.

Time was when, if called on by the necessities of public curiosity to provide information about what the old guard was going to do in a convention, you should go to three or four men and find out. In New York you could go to Platt or O'Dell or Barnes, or even that weakest last of the dynasty, Whitman, and you could get something to dig your teeth into; could assure yourself where that solid phalanx of delegates from New York would stand when the last ditch came. But now New York has no such leader left. New York, politically, is no longer an empire—it is seven little local leaders, whose security of tenure has been as sadly shaken, as authority everywhere has been in the general disruption of accepted things. Efforts have been made to remedy this condition in New York by getting the leaders together, but the insecurity of their authority has made them so lacking in self-confidence and so jealous of each other that they won't come together. They can't be brought into the same room—each fears he might leave the room with his political pockets emptier than when he entered it.

And so Penrose—even Penrose flat on his back—is about the only source the old guard has left for authoritative direction and the inspiration of confident leadership. And even from Penrose the troubled leaders don't get anything very definite.

Penrose Hasn't Decided.

So far as your correspondent knows—and nothing said in the article has any better authority than second-hand—Penrose hasn't made up his mind. A long time ago Penrose was for Senator Watson, of Indiana. That was when he was well—rather too well and too confident. When it became apparent that Watson would not do, Penrose gave half-hearted assent to Harding. That was, however, an emergency to bridge things over, and didn't really mean much. It was in the early months of the campaign—about the time that Wood was making a degree of progress that alarmed the old guard leaders. They used to hurry to Penrose to impress upon him the need of getting together and agreeing on someone.

Penrose probably guessed at the time that Harding would not last; certainly he knows it now. As between the two leaders in the race, Wood and Lowden, Penrose is apparently rather firmly opposed to the former, and not much warmed up over the latter. He would undoubtedly be pleased to see a real opening to name Knox. He is by no means as hostile to Johnson as outsiders might assume. Penrose is a politician, and he knows that Johnson on the ticket would be a vote-getter; would carry in with him republican congressmen from doubtful districts. If Johnson would accept the vice presidency, Penrose would probably give it to him, and thereby solve a lot of the problems that are thrust upon him my his worried lieutenants. However, that is not likely to happen.

Not Satisfactory to Pilgrims.

Thetruth is, Penrose hasn't yet made up his program. That is the net of all the messages the pilgrims get from him. It isn't very satisfactory. From the pilgrims' point of view, the time is short, and the necessity for a program is most pressing. That is what makes the romantic interest which the campaign has already given Penrose now take on the conventional dramatic suspense of the beginning of the fourth act. Will Penrose come to Chicago or will he not? Certainly he is too sick to come on the convention floor. That burly figure which always moved about among the delegates like one of the grimmer peaks of the Rocky mountains, will not be there to provide the shadow of a great rock when the Johnson and Borah hurricanes are blowing in. It is gravely doubted if Penrose will even be in Chicago. He has been a seriously sick man, and is far from recovery.

HE TIED HIS FEET WITH BARBED WIRE AND DROWNED SELF

Richmond, Va., May 30.—After tying his feet together with a strand of barbed wire and leaving a note pinned to a rail fence nearby, notifying his relatives where his body would be found, C. W. Heath, 43, a farmer of Pole Green, drowned himself in a creek not more than 18 inches deep, on his farm 8 miles from here. Relatives found his body late yesterday afternoon. Brooding over the death of his wife is given as the cause.

Pastor Holds Lash While Ex-Convict Kneels in Pulpit

Rev. John Ham Forcefully Illustrates Sermon and Offers Substitute for Whipping in Camps.

With Bert Donaldson, the ex-convict, his feet chained, garbed in prison stripes, and kneeling on the floor of the pulpit, and bending over a low wooden bench, to which he was handcuffed, Rev. John W. Ham, in his sermon at the Baptist Tabernacle last night, illustrated the manner in which recalcitrant prisoners at the county camp were punished.

The preacher did not apply the lash, but he held it up for the inspection of the congregation. It was a facsimile of the lashes which are now in use by the prison officers, and was about four feet long, four inches wide and perhaps a qaurter of an inch thick.

A thong at the handle end encircled the wrist of the minister. The leather was doubled for the half length nearest the handle, and the two thicknesses were fastened together with copper rivets. The lash end was of a single thickness, and pliable, and with it Dr. Ham whipped the air.

Standing for Under Dog.

"Donaldson has not been enthusiastic about appearing here tonight," said Dr. Ham; "indeed, he has been embarrassed and has tried to procure a substitute to take his part, but I have persuaded him to go through with it because of the object in view.

"We are standing here for the under dog, and in doing this I have been severely criticised for my attitude; but I have been criticised so much for such actions that I fatten on criticisms. The method may not be dignified, but I don't object to a method if the result of the method is the betterment of men.

"My object in presenting this demonstration is to change the form of punishment to be meted out to prisoners. Under our law, ten lashes are permitted to be administered to a prisoner as often as the warden deems it necessary to enforce discipline, and each punishment is recorded with the prison commission. The heavy clothing is removed, and nothing is left between the lash and the skin but a scanty amount of cover.

"In March, sixteen white men received the punishment of ten lashes. This form of punishment has been repudiated in forty-six states. It is archaic, brutal, indefensible and beastly. Alabama is still whipping her prisoners the same as we do in Georgia, and yet we condemn the knout in Russia, in Germany, in Spain and in South America, while we, at the same time, are using the lash.

Hate Instead of Sanity.

"We cannot make men by this form of punishment, but on the contrary we make them enemies of society, hating all that we stand for. I am not a maudlin sentimentalist, and I am not in favor of discarding punishment altogether, but we ought to substitute a better method, one that will not cause men to make war on society.

"I suggest a restricted social intercourse and a restricted diet for the unruly prisoner; not starvation, but such a restriction of his food as will lessen his happiness in his digestive organs and in himself. The women have found out how diet affects a man's happiness, and it surely could be applied in these cases.

"The prison has been described as the 'dry dock of a thousand wrecks,' and that is what it should be. There should be ball games and amusements for the recreation and the regeneration of the criminals, and not punishments that cause us to hang our head in shame."

He concluded his sermon with the statement that Bert Donaldson had been regenerated for five years, and was now building a Christian character; that he was a moral and religious asset to the community, and a monument of saving grace.

Press Agent Story Of Circus Type Comes to Life

New York City Editors Bit on Story About Man Bringing His Pet Lion, Jim, Into Broadway Hotel—'Twas Advertising a Movie.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, May 30.—The circus type of press agent story that New York city editors get on their toes again to keep manufactured sensations out of print. They all bit on Thomas R. Zann's exploit of bringing his pet lion, Jim, into a Broadway hotel and calmly ordering a waiter to bring him fifteen pounds of steak, raw and bloody.

It soon developed that Thomas R. Zann's full designation was T. R. Zann, or Tarzan if you may it fast, being also the name of a wild animal movie then impending on Broadway.

This stunt was a throwback to the circus school of press-gentry, which refined Broadway press-gents had been insisting succumbed to long since to more subtle methods of exploitation. But even the most refined are wondering if the circus school was not dismissed a little too hastily if that sort of thing can get across in New York nowadays:

Editor's Faith Jostled.

The lion's affair came only a few weeks after the faith of New York editors had been badly jostled by a fantastic romance which would have been a great newspaper story if it hadn't been a press gent's pipe.

A delegation of swarthy gentlemen arrived at a hotel in picturesque costumes calculated to simulate the dress of Syrian noblemen. They announced that they were pursuing the daughter of a rich Syrian who had eloped with an American marine. They were to find her and restore her to her father at any cost.

The room was heavily cloaked with incense and dusky servitors bowed visitors into the assembled presences. It was great atmosphere and the papers snapped up the story. These pursuers referred to

GREAT PROGRESS MADE BY NEGROES

Statistics Given at First Meeting of National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

The eleventh annual national conference of the National Association for the advancement of colored people began its sessions at the Bethel A. M. E. church yesterday in the presence of leading members of both races. The first of the four days' conference meetings sounded the keynote and purpose of the conference—free and frank discussion for race betterment by leaders of both races.

With the church crowded to its capacity with 3,000 present, of whom 500 were delegates from forty-three states, the meeting was opened with un invocation by the Rev. L. H. King, pastor of the Central M. E. church. Rev. R. H. Singleton, president of the Atlanta branch of the association, then introduced the presiding officer, Arthur B. Spingarn, late captain A. E. F., a prominent New York lawyer and vice president of the national asosciation.

Mayor Key welcomed the convention to Atlanta.

Moorfield Storey's Address.

Moorfield Storey, ex-president of the American Bar association, in a speech prepared by Mr. Storey, but read by Mr. Spingarn because of Mr. Storey's illness, took as his keynote the statements of such well known men as Henry W. Grady and other Atlantans, including the Rev. M. Ashby Jones.

Quoting Mr. Grady:

"The problem of the south is to carry on within her body politic two separate races, equal in civil and political rights and nearly equal in numbers. She must carry those races in peace, for discord means ruin. She must carry them separately, for assimilation means debasement. She must carry them in equal justice, for to this she is pledged in honor and in gratitude. She must carry them even unto the end, for in human probability she will never be quit of either."

"When this doctrine is recognized and applied throughout this country," Mr. Storey stated, "the work of this association will have been done. We ask for what Grady asked, no more or no less."

Dwelling on these individual points at length, Mr. Storey stated that religion, law, self interest and chivalry forbids the excuse of strength to keep weaker and poorer neighbors down anywhere, and I plead to expel the prejudice from which the white and black races are suffering."

Mr. Storey stated in part: "England and France feel themselves deserted by us, since we repudiate the treaties on which they relied. Germany holds us responsible for her overthrow. We certainly cannot rely on Russia and can we afford to cultivate just discontent in our midst. These twelve million men must seek friends elsewhere—the government under which they live and the men among whom they dwell deny them justice and safety."

Advancement of Negro.

Quoting figures Mr. Storey stated:

"Of all statistics about the advance of any class or race, those of the negro race, comparing 1866 and 1919 are most amazing.

"Homes have increased from 12,-600 to 600,000; farms operated from 20,000 to 1,000,000; businesses conducted from 2,100 to 50,000; wealth accumulated from $20,000,000 to $1,-100,000,000; literacy from 10 per cent to 90 per cent; colleges and normal schools from 5 to 500; students in public schools from 100,000 to 1,200,000; teachers from 600 to 38,000; property for higher education from $60,000 to $22,000,000; annual expenditure for education from $700,000 to $15,000,000; churches from 700 to 43,000; communicants from 600,00 to 4,800,000; Sunday schools from 1,000 to 46,000; Sunday school pupils from 50,000 to 2,250,-000; church property from $1,500,-000 to $85,900,000.

"In 1910 of negroes ten years of age and over 87.4 per cent of males and 54.7 per cent of females were gainfully employed as compared with 80.6 per cent and 19.4 per cent of whites. More than one-half of these were farm laborers alone. In a single decade negro farm owners increased 17 per cent and their land in 1910 was valued at $346,833,-276. There has been a gradual transfer from the less skilled to skilled occupations. In the decade ending 1910 there was an increase of 103 per cent in factory workmen, the increase in textile factories being 283 per cent. They operate insurance companies with assets amounting to $3,500,000, with $60,000,000 insurance in force. There are 72 negro banks, capitalized at $12,500,000, doing an annual business of $35,000,000.

"Negroes invested in Liberty bonds $1 of every $5 they possessed. There were 340,000 in the army, and only one case of conviction for avoiding the draft."

The program concluded with an address by James Weldon Johnson, field secretary, who said in part:

"Figures gathered by Tuskegee, a leading Chicago newspaper and the association show that assault is not the cause of lynching of negroes, the commonly accepted version. Of 1,985 negroes lynched in the southern states, the period of 1883 to 1903, this cause was assigned in 675 cases. In 1,310 cases other causes were assigned. Murder alone, for which there can be conceivably no justification for not letting the ordinary procedure of law take its course, was assigned for 753 cases. Minor offenses, such as slander and giving information, were given in 206 cases.

"From 1889 to 1918, thirty years, the lynched number was 2,472, of which 523 were for alleged assault. In past thirty years, fifty negro women were lynched.

Dr. Jones' Plea.

An eloquent plea for co-operation between the negro and the white man in a problem he declared was not a sectional one, but an American problem, was made by Rev. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

Rev. Jones paid a great tribute to Africa, describing it as a land of mystery and occultism, and predicted its possibilities in poetry and literature as unlimited. He appealed to the negro to improve his status and to work out the solution of the negro question in conjunction with his white neighbors.

The speaker made a final plea to the south for the passage of the Dyar anti-lynching bill now before congress.

Sunday morning sermons on the conference and by its members were held at eleven colored churches.

Events scheduled for Monday are the business session of the conference at 11 in the morning, a round table conference at 2 in the afternoon and an evening meeting devoted to labor and migration, at which Harry E. Davis, of Cleveland, will preside. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' league; Eugene R. Black, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Plato Durham will speak.

Little Relief Seen From General Reign Of Sky-High Prices

That Is View of Federal Reserve Board, Which Seems Not to Be Impressed by Recent Price-Cutting.

ONLY SLIGHT INCREASE NOTED IN PRODUCTION

And There Is No Greater Disposition on the Part of the Public to Economize and Invest—Business Has Suffered From Freight Jam.

Washington, May 30.—Despite recent reductions in prices, little relief from the general reign of high prices is seen by the federal reserve board in its analysis of May business conditions, made public tonight. The board expressed the view that there has been no change in the underlying conditions responsible for the high cost of living.

Asserting that while "store sales" and a tendency to lower prices bears witness to the presence of "distributing factors," which suggest the advent of wide alternation in price levels, the board declares it cannot accept the situation as a whole for its face value. The explanation is added that there has been only a slight increase in production and that there is no greater disposition on the part of the general public to economize and invest than had ruled heretofore.

Underlying Conditions Unchanged.

"The changes that have taken place, therefore," the board's analysis says, "cannot be looked upon as indicating a modification of underlying conditions. They may, however, afford a basis for changes in business relationships that may broaden into far-reaching alteration of the essential price structure."

Business in every section of the country has suffered considerably from the freight jam which has prevented normal movement of products to markets. Effects of the tie-up are noticed in the agricultural districts as much as the industrial areas, and that farmers are not the smallest class which has sought more bank help in the way of credit as a result.

Results of the board's action in the direction of restricted loans already has begun to be evident, according to reports of the various reserve banks. In addition to a general reduction in the value as well as volume of securities traded in the financial centers, there has been a general revision of interest rates affecting both commercial paper and call money, it is stated.

"The labor situation during the month has been one of the outstanding elements of "doubt and difficulty" and is one of the largest problems with which the country is expe to have to deal the rest of the summer. In addition intense shortage of labor on farms and at other points of primary production, sporadic strikes have occurred in many lines of manufacturing, notably the textile industry, indicating in the board's view continued unrest.

Wages Have Fallen Behind.

"Wages apparently have fallen behind the advance in prices and the cost of living," the statement continues. "The movement of labor from farm to city is continuing. Various demands for higher wages have been taken under advisement for the purpose of bringing about compromise adjustments. General complaint of low efficiency or small output per unit of labor is prevalent, and the difficulty of getting skilled labor in some of the more highly developed lines of manufacture is now very considerable."

The "disturbing factors" have materially affected many lines of manufacturing, although general manufacturing continues in substantial volume. Cancellations of orders in both cotton and wool, by the jobbing and retail trade, have not yet reached large proportions, but they are "already noticeable." This has resulted in some manufacturers being forced to "make concessions to retailers," who were described as being "quite unsettled." The same situation was said to obtain in the leather trade.

With respect to conditions, local to the various reserve districts, the board's review said in part

"No. 2 (New York)—Price reductions are noted in retail stores, a considerable accumulation of goods awaiting shipment resulting from strikes, a growth in the cost of doing business, great reduction in securities prices, but nevertheless a continued high demand for goods, and activity in trade."

"No. 5 (Richmond)—Unrest and uncertainty in commercial fields have continued, and agitation against high prices has led to some curtailment in purchasing. Collections are good, on the whole, and the most serious cloud on the present situation is the traffic outlook.

Atlanta District Report.

"No. 6 (Atlanta)—The peak of high prices has been reached in most lines, and the tendency is downward, while there is some indication of reduction in stocks of goods. Unrest still prevails on account of high prices.

"No. 7 (Chicago)—Decided readjustment in economic conditions is anticipated, one factor in which the growth of indications of general re-

LIGHT IS WANTED ON ALL BARRELS

Senate Probers to Broaden Inquiry Into Campaign Funds — Anti-Saloon League to Be Asked to Explain.

Washington, May 30.—The senate subcommittee which has been investigating campaign expenditures during the past week will recess Monday, partly in honor of Memorial day and partly because its chairman, Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, has other business as a member of the senate committee on labor, which meets Monday despite the holiday.

The subcommittee will, however, be up and at it again on Tuesday morning, when the scope of its inquiry is to be measurably broadened.

Not only will campaign managers for various presidential candidates be heard, beginning Tuesday, but managers of political organizations backing no particular candidates, yet furthering legislative reforms of one sort or another, will be asked to explain the sources of their campaign barrels. The treasurers of the Plumb Plan league and of the Anti-Saloon league are among those down for an early hearing, as is Mrs. Antoinette Fox, of the women's committee of the democratic party.

Loeb to Be Quizzed.

In addition, more members of the Wood entourage—William Loeb, of New York, former secretary to President Roosevelt, and Colonel Fred Alger, of Michigan, among them—will be quizzed in an endeavor to find out how much more than the $1,174,919.19 thus far accounted for has been spent on promoting the general's chances.

Loeb has already been cited by Albert A. Sprague, treasurer of the Wood national committee, as having raised $225,000 in New York, while Alger is said to have been the principal disbursing agent of the Michigan primary campaign.

Tuesday it will also hear for the first time the statements of men who handled the primary campaign in California, in the interests of Herbert Hoover, and will inquire further into the state and national expenditures made in behalf of Senator Hiram Johnson. During the committee's eleven-hour session Saturday allegations concerning use of large sums of money in the California fight were thrown into the examination.

The committee likewise is said to be planning further inquiry into the candidacy of W. G. McAdoo on the democratic side and to gather more statements as to the Ohio republican fight.

"Books Are Open," Says Wood.

Before leaving for Chicago today, Major General Leonard Wood declared he wanted nothing concealed from the senate committee investigating expenditures of presidential candidates:

"Our books are open to the committee," said Wood.

Asked regarding an article by Oswald Garrison Villard in a current periodical, attacking Wood's record, he put a counter question:

"Wasn't Villard the man who lunched with Ambassador Bernstorff and then went to President Wilson to protest against me?"

Wood continued with the statement there are certain persons whose charges he does not care to "dignify with answer."

"Villard is at the head of that list," Wood added.

Wood was in Washington six hours, following his tour in North Carolina, where he said he had received an encouraging reception.

He conferred with Senator Moses and other Washington friends. Wood said he had received with particular pleasure the news that Governor Allen, of Kansas, had agreed to nominate him in the republican convention.

Letters to Woman Show Conspiracy To Steal Platinum

Chief Chemist at Old Hickory Powder Plant Arrested—He Was in Charge of Platinum Worth $1,800,000.

Nashville, Tenn., May 30.—H. B. Crone, chief chemist at the Old Hickory Powder plant here, was arrested tonight on a warrant sworn out by United States Attorney Lee Douglass in connection with thefts of platinum from the plant which officials say may run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Crone refused to say anything in connection with the charges against him.

District Attorney Swann, of New York, sent to Federal Attorney Douglass letters dated May 14 and 15, from Joe Wellen, a prisoner in the Tombs prison in that state, to his wife and which were intercepted by the officials. The letters are said to have directed Mrs. Wellen to come to Nashville and get $20,000 worth of "stuff" from Crone to cover the bail of Wellen's fellow prisoner, Robert Brown, alias Carter, alias Brooks, who, officials state, was once Crone's assistant.

Brown, according to District Attorney Swann, was arrested recently while trying to sell platinum in New York at a pawnshop, and when his room was reached $30,000 worth of platinum was found hidden in two hot water bottles in his suitcase.

Mr. Wickens, of the bureau of standards, Washington, it is said, went to New York to investigate the platinum and recognized it as the kind of platinum used at an acid plant and went first to Nitro, Va., where he found nothing wrong, then came to Old Hickory, where he has worked for the past five days.

Crone is a university man, having attended Oberlin college and the Colorado School of Mines. His home is in Cleveland, Ohio. He has been employed as chief chemist at the powder plant since April, 1918, and was in complete charge of about $1,800,000 worth of platinum.

GEORGIA G. O. P. PREPARES TO AIR ITS DIRTY LINEN

Contest From This State at Chicago Brings Up Direct Fight Between the Wood and Lowden Forces.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS PREDICTED BY HAYS

Chairman Says Politics Will Not Control in Passing On Contests. Georgia Fight the Most Spectacular of All.

Chicago, May 30.—When the republican national committee on tomorrow begins making decisions over contested delegations to the convention it will, according to announcement by Chairman Will H. Hays, proceed to make "judicial decisions; not political ones."

Contests this year are not surrounded with the importance they took on in the memorable Taft-Roosevelt fight in 1912. Although Major General Leonard Wood and Governor F. O. Lowden are most affected by the decisions, neither of these candidates would gain enough delegates to assure a nomination if all the contests were to be decided in his favor.

The official roll shows 137 seats in contest out of the 984 which compose the convention. Further filings probably will bring the total to 148. The national committee hopes to dispose of them in about four days. It is not improbable that the bulk of the contests may be disposed of by precedent-setting decisions, on which the committee will decide questions of rule, which in turn will decide other cases.

The sessions of the committee will be open. Contestants will be represented by attorneys; the public presumably will be represented by the newspaper correspondents and the committee itself will be represented by an attorney. The contesting delegates themselves also will be present.

The Contest From Georgia.

The majority of the contests come from the south, involving the claims of white and black delegates. The contest from Georgia, bringing up a direct fight between Wood and Lowden forces, promises to be the center of interest. Fifteen of the seventeen seats are in dispute.

The first Georgia convention elected a "black-and-tan" delegation, headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, a negro. It was officially listed as unpledged. Governor Lowden's campaign manager testified at Washington before a senate committee that $9,000 of the Lowden campaign fund had been sent to Johnson. Later, fifteen delegates, headed by Roscoe Pickett, were elected and were understood to favor General Wood. Frank H. Hitchcock, one of the general's managers, testified to the senate committee that $10,000 was sent to Pickett. The Georgia contest is expected probably to be the most spectacular of all.

Since a contest was filed from Texas, there was a bolt of negroes from the San Antonio convention, and now two full sets of delegates are asking to be seated. Both are reported favorable to the candidacy of General Wood. In brief, the number and distribution of contests are as follows:

Alabama, 1; Arkansas, 7; Florida, 8; Georgia, 15; Louisiana, 12; Minnesota, 1; Mississippi, 12; Missouri, 4; North Carolina, 17; Oklahoma, 6; South Carolina, 11; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 23; Virginia, 15, and the District of Columbia, 2.

Less than fifty instructed votes are involved in the contests. Thirty-five Wood delegates and nine Lowden delegates are involved. The other contestants are uninstructed.

Chairman Hays arrived early today, coming on the same train with William Cooper Procter, of Cincinnati, described before the senate investigating committee as the "angel" of the Wood candidacy. Colonel T. Coleman Du Pont, of Delaware, also was a passenger.

After a luncheon with newspaper correspondents Chairman Hays made a flying visit to presidential "row" and then motored out to the Coliseum to inspect the work on the convention arrangements.

Statement by Chairman Hays.

The chairman issued this statement:

"It looks here today like the

The Magazine of a Remade World

FICTION is the most highly educational form of the Literary Art. It delivers its lesson in dramatic form and with the spell of action and romance that intrigues the interest and removes the dead weight of deliberate study from the facts and principles that it teaches.

More important than this, it translates its lessons into terms of human action and emotion. And all lessons are valuable only as they are related to life—to the emotions and the acts of men and women.

The publishers of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE have had a keen sense of its responsibilities as one of the greatest educational forces in America—for no publication that is regularly taken into more than three-quarters of a million homes each month is less than a great educational force.

The Editorial Department has clear and definite ideas of this magazine's obligations as an educational force. It recognizes that its pages must interpret, in fictional form, the great vital world changes that have come with the war and are reshaping all phases of American life—or else fail to live up to its opportunities and responsibilities as an educational influence.

This is one reason why the leading Schools and Educators of America find it a powerful medium for reaching young people and their parents with a presentation of the advantages of their institutions.

Detailed information regarding the residential schools listed on this page, all of which use the advertising columns of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE, may be obtained by addressing Educational Bureau, THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE, 33 West 42nd Street, New York City

Mr. Edward Shaw, aged 29, of Indianapolis, and Miss Lucile Jowers, aged 23, of Buena Vista, Ga., were married Sunday afternoon at the home, 256 Whitehall street, in the presence of a few friends.

Miss Maude Monk and Mrs. Will Harvey, of Atlanta, were attendants, with Rev. Owens officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will be at home to friends at 266 Whitehall street, but will later make their home in Indianapolis, where Mr. Shaw has business connections.

GEORGIA G. O. P. TO AIR DIRTY LINEN

middle of convention week. The interest and the crowds of enthusiastic republicans already arrived indicate the nation-wide party vigor and enthusiasm.

"Everywhere republicans are 'rearin' to go.' The unprecedented confidence of republican success which obtains everywhere is simply the reflection o fthe realization of the necessity for such success as a matter of national welfare. Everywhere is the appreciation of the fact that we have a task to perform worthy of our party strength and party history, that we have a patriotic work to do is epoch-making and that upon our performance will largely depend the future of the country.

"The chronicler of centuries to come will look backward at these now approaching years as of the most tremendous important development of American policy and it is the republican party that is to direct that development. Nothing shall decrease the certainty of this republican success. Nothing shall decrease the certainty of our doing well that which we are certainly about to be called upon to accomplish.

"We have a work to do for the good of the country, and it takes us all to do it."

The state delegations themselves probably will be required by the national committee to dispose of sixty-seven surplus delegates selected from nine states.

King Holds Penrose's Proxy.

John T. King, of Connecticut, who managed General Wood's campaign up to January 1, when he was displaced in favor of Colonel William Cooper Procter, arrived tonight, bearing the proxy of Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania. Simultaneously, friends of Mr. Penrose who are in a position to know stated that the Pennsylvania solon will not come to Chicago for the convention, despite the fact that his physicians had announced his physical condition probably would not prevent the trip.

"Presidential row" was agog with speculation tonight as to who will receive Pennsylvania's seventy-six votes if Mr. King is in charge in Senator Penrose's behalf.

Other arrivals tonight included the following national committeemen: John W. Hart, Idaho; John T. Adams, Iowa; M. J. Mulvihill, Mississippi, and Thomas A. Marlow, Montana.

LaFayette B. Gleason, temporary secretary of the convention, is also here.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson To Include Atlanta On His Lecture Tour

William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, who is now touring the United States in behalf of the prohibition movement, will speak in eighty-five cities, where he will relate his experiences of a year and a half in Great Britain.

From Birmingham, where he will speak on July 28, he will come to Atlanta on July 29, after which he will wind up his tour in Nashville on the evening of July 30.

Mr. Johnson will then take a month's vacation at his home in Westerville, Ohio, before embarking for England on September 15.

TWO NEGROES KILLED IN ATLANTA SUNDAY

Sunday "frolics" in Darktown caused the death of two negroes—Will Daniel, of 181 Martin street, dying from a blow on the head with a rock said to have been thrown by Sam Wilson, of 413 Richmond street, and Charlie Weams, of 358 Fort street, succumbing to a bullet wound said to have been inflicted by a pistol in the hands of Frank Williams, of 15 London lane. Weams is reported by officers to have been shot as the result of an argument over the price of some whisky he is said to have bought from Ella Sims, on Courtland street.

TRIBUTES ARE PAID U. S. DEAD ABROAD

Both France and England Bow in Reverence to Heroes Who Died for Them, During Observance of American Memorial Day.

BY EDWIN HULLINGER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, May 30.—The Stars and Stripes and the tri-color of France flew side by side today over every American grave in France, while doughboys and poilus performed the military honors in a great Memorial day observance by the French nation.

There were detachments from the army of occupation at most of the cemeteries, but there were a few remote burial grounds which the American troops could not reach, and over these graves detachments of poilus fired volleys for their comrades in arms.

From every corner of France came reports tonight of a great national tribute to the Americans, which made it seem almost as though France had overcome for the moment the pangs of losing nearly 2,000,000 of her own sons, to devote her whole heart to the 70,000 crusaders from overseas.

General Allen, commanding the Americans on the Rhine, sent every available soldier back into France in detachments to visit the various scattered cemeteries.

Ceremonies at Suresnes.

The principal ceremonies were at Suresnes, where Ambassador Wallace and Marshal Petain, commander-in-chief of the French armies, delivered addresses in memory of the dead, followed by a volley from a platoon.

Other ceremonies went on at Toul, Thiaucourt, Fere-en-Tardenois, Flames, Neufchateau, Contrexeville, Vittel, Lemans, St. Nazaire, Dijon, Is-sur-Tille, Langres, Rouen, Chalons-sur-Marne, Tours, Nevers, Mesves, St. Maixent, Juvigny, Bordeaux, Marsaillies, Le Havre, La Rochelle, Nantes and Lyons.

At every ceremony the French people turned out in their thousands, trudging along dusty roads to bare their heads and pray over the graves of their American friends. It was noteworthy that children were so numerous, almost every child carrying a wreath furnished by the Red Cross or a simple bouquet of wild flowers plucked from the woods and fields over which the Americans toiled and fought.

The Red Cross in Paris mobilized a motor convoy system which carried most of the American colony to the nearby cemeteries.

Sailors Are Honored.

At Brest, besides decorating the graves, the French erected a huge memorial centopath to the American sailors buried there. At Marseilles the merchant sailors in port joined the American colony in the ceremonies at the request of the G. A. R., and Cleveland Coxe placed a wreath on the Lafayette memorial.

More than 1,000,000 francs was raised by the Paris American colony which was spent for more than 70,000 wreaths, or one to a grave. The wreaths were distributed in time for today's services.

Nor were the graves in Belgium, Luxemburg and along the Rhine neglected, for the American committees had forethought of them.

Throughout France the ceremonies were official, the government having ordained a national observance to reconsecrate the friendship of the two countries. Cardinal Lucon, of Rheims, requested his people to offer their prayers for the Americans.

Scenes at Cemetery.

The scene at Suresnes cemetery caused the eyes of many self-disciplined soldiers to blink with tears.

Three batalions of French infantry, four cavalry squadrons and two batteries, joined the detachment of doughboys down from the Rhineland in paying homage to the fellows who died for the great cause.

Thousands of Americans came to the ceremonies, but they were assimilated by the great multitude of French people who trudged to the little graveyard atop the high promentory dominating the Boise de Boulogne.

The French girls have not forgotten their friends, the Americans, for I saw many of them kneeling before the white crosses, praying devoutly or arranging bunches of flowers on the mounds as the column of steel-helmeted French troops moved away down the hill at the close of the ceremony.

"The heroes who lie there," said Marshal Petain in his address, "are not in exile, for France is their second motherland. She loves them and she comes to pay them homage today as though they were her sons."

Ambassador Wallace's Tribute.

"We cannot add to the honor won by these men who died on the field of honor,' said Ambassador Wallace. 'But we can learn from their example and rededicate ourselves to the tasks of the peace which they died to gain.

"The world has never questioned why America entered the war, nor what her soldiers fought to achieve. It was first to put down the power of evil, and then to establish lasting peace among mankind. . . . With the allies they won the victory. It is for us to maintain the just peace they died to establish. The war was fought to make the world safe for democracy and not for anarchy. The hideous head of anarchy, in whatever shape and wherever it may be found, must be crushed without consideration, without counting the cost.

"The twin menaces of anarchy and idleness are today the chief elements preventing the speedy restoratioi of the world to a normal condition. The peace we helped to win—the peace we shall maintain—is a peace of justice, law and order. So long as this is challenegd, so long as this is delayed, in the west, in the east, in the north or in the south, the work the hero dead began is not completed. Be that our task now and hereafter. 'Tis they who gave us the torch of civilization as their spirits passed on high, and we must keep it bright, else neither shall we live in peace, nor they sleep in peace, in the Argonne, in Picardy or on Flanders field."

STIRRING CEREMONIAL MARKS DAY IN ENGLAND.

By A. E. Johnson.

London, May 30.—Great Britain today bowed in a spirit of reverence for the 2,000 American dead soldiers, sailors and marines and the 80 Lusitania victims who lie buried in various parts of the islands.

It was an Anglo-American memorial day service, which, in London, filled St. Margaret's Westminster with British and Americans of all ranks of society, under the auspices of the American societies.

"It is fitting that the people of this country should not forget America's brave sons who came to Europe to defend civilization and who died and lie buried in our soil," said Canon Carnegie, at St. Margaret's.

The services opened with the battle hymn of the republic, sung by the massed voices of the largest American gathering since the war.

About Lusitania Victims.

The services in the little hilltop cemetery beyond Queenstown, where the Lusitania victims rest, in a square plot, were attended by officers of the British army and navy. Admiral Reginald G. C. Tupper delivered the memorial address, standing before the flower-decked graves and beneath the folds of the Stars and Stripes, which flapped gently at half-mast.

As the services closed, British army buglers sounded the last post, the equivalent of taps, while the assembly stood with their heads bared and bowed, facing the square.

Similar respect was paid to the dead soldiers and sailors in Manchester, Liverpool and Glasgow, and to those who are buried in Dublin, Belfast, Grange, Gorman and Cork, with the United States consuls attending as official representatives of the government.

Everywhere the graves were neat and beautifully green, as a result of careful tending, which has not relaxed since the expedition sailed for home.

PRESS AGENT STORY COMES TO LIFE

the girl as "the Virgin of Stamboul," a musical sort of title that fits well in headlines.

Well, they found the girl working as a waitress in the Bronx and it turned out that she had played a leading part in a big film which was turned loose next day, called "The Virgin of Stamboul."

Anna Held's Milk Bath.

The oldest publicity men recall no stunt to equal Anna Held's milk bath, which did as much to make her famous as the eyes she could not make behave.

A rather obscure milk dealer sued fair Anna for a very large milk bill, and she went to court to testify. Yes, she admitted, she had received the milk, but it was very inferior for her purposes.

Had Miss Held drunk the milk? the lawyer wanted to know.

Oh, dear, no. In fact, it was not drinking milk. Name of a cow, did the attorney think the beautiful Anna could drink that much milk.

Well, in that case would she mind telling the court why she ordered it.

"I wanted it for my daily milk bath."

Within a few hours the whole world knew the story and it is still a classic in the publicity game.

In order to further the propaganda, Anna Held thereafter took an occasional milk bath, and one day in Pittsburg she permitted a dramatic critic to interview her as she sat in the tub in milk up to her shoulders. It should be called to mind, perhaps, that milk is opaque.

Got Best of Billy Sunday.

The only man who ever got the best of Billy Sunday in a publicity deal was the press-agent for a winter garden road show. The musical comedy hit Boston to find Billy's performance going great guns, and the available newspaper space allotted to him. Billy was saying uncomplimentary things about the undress of stage beauties, and the men in baldhead row.

What did the press-agent do but persuade Sunday to invite the beauty chorus to one of the tabernacle meetings, accompanied by their own orchestra, to open the revival by singing Sunday's famous hymn, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

What did the press-agent do but jazz up the hymn into a fox-trot number, snapping their fingers, swaying their bodies, shaking their shoulders and rolling their eyes, right there in front of Billy Sunday, who had put in many fast rounds telling the people what an evil thing was the modern dance.

The press-agent was so overcome by one thing and another that he brightened his particular corner by rolling off his chair in plain view of the multitude.

That day the show girls got the play in the papers.

That Circus Tanbark.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell's press-agent pulled a good one on Broadway that got the famous actress into print very prominently for a few days. New York awoke one morning to find Broadway under a thick layer of circus tanbark. Inquiry showed that a permit had been issued for this to a man who proved to be the press-agent. Inquirers learned that the traffic noise, traffic so harrassed the actress' nerves that she could not carry on if they took up the tanbark.

P. P. Caft, of the Bostock Wild Animal show, loosened a craft of monkeys as the circus caravan was crossing Brooklyn bridge and traffic was tied up by a wild pursuit of the monks, which raced along the aerial cables and leaped from girder to girder with the utmost abandon. The ludicrous plight of the traffic police trying to arrrest the monkeys was irresistable to the New York papers, and they played the story well enough to pay for lost monkeys.

Purple Murder Mystery.

They tell also of a purple murder mystery perpetrated in a fair-sized seacoast town which had the police guessing the public palpitant for several days. A purple silk gown, stockings, lingerie and hat were found on the beach—enough to start the mystery. A few days yater, the famous crime play, "The Deep Purple," rolled into town to play an engagement, and the mystery lifted.

And there was the New York manufacturer who drove up in a low-neck hack to a Fifth avenue jewelry store one afternoon and started across the sidewalk carrying four trays of ostensible diamond rings. At the threshold he pulled a Charley Chaplin stumble and the four trays flew in four directions, scattering the glassware among the crowd. Of course there was a frightful scramble and very few of the rings were recovered at the time.

But when the finders began to discover that the rocks were just glass, the hoax was revealed.

The manufacturer had a box factory and "diamond" was his trademark. He had been well exploited in print.

Elsie Janis lost her jewelry and war medals off a launch in long Island sound last summer and just a short while ago she lost them again in Memphis, proving the hardihood of the most overworked press-agent's story in the theatrical business, "Actress Loses Gems."

NELSON CONFIDENT OF HOLDING PLACE

Not Worried by Suggestion That "A New Set of Officers Be Sent to Take Charge of Strike."

Statements were made yesterday by members of railway labor organizations who are not entirely in sympathy with the striking clerks of the Central of Georgia railroad, that the suggestion of the general chairman of the railroad crafts recently in conference with railway heads at Macon, "that a new set of officers be sent here to take charge of the clerks' situation in the southeast" was aimed at J. W. Nelson, vice grand president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, who resides in this city and is now in charge of the grievances of the striking clerks.

Mr. Nelson, it was said, has not only not improved the situation of the clerks, but has caused them considerable loss of prestige and public esteem by means of hasty action and his methods in dealing with railroad officials.

Reports received Sunday indicate that there is a tendency on the part of some of the clerks to return to their old positions.

Nine of the striking Central clerks at Albany, Ga., asked to be reinstated in their old positions late Sunday and were put to work. Five clerks at Eufaula who walked out a few days ago are said to have informed the Central officials that they would return to work this morning. In Atlanta a few clerks have gone back to their jobs.

As against these figures, Mr. Nelson stated last night that he had received reports that Central of Georgia clerks were leaving their posts in groups of twenty-five here and thirty-five there, some in Atlanta, others in Savannah and elsewhere, all voting to remain away until all of the clerks in the entire southeast had been restored to their former positions.

Referring to the suggestion of the chairman at Macon that new managers be sent here to take charge of the situation of the clerks, Mr. Nelson said:

"I am not saying that the statement doesn't refer to me. What I do say is that the grand president of our brotherhood, E. H. Fitzgerald, who is now at the Plaza hotel in Chicago, has implicit confidence in my ability to handle this situation, according to his instructions; that I have full authority to handle the matter. In that sense the present status is a legal one. All outside interference with the situation has been fruitless."

There will be a meeting of the clerks at the Wigwam tonight.

A Shampoo That Will Not Whiten the Hair

The serious objections to cheap shampoos are that they contain impurities and alkalis. They burn and deaded the hair, deprive it of life and color, make the scalp and hair dry and eventually white. Only natural blends of the purest and most highly refined Cocoanut and Palm oils as blended in Shuco Shampoo should be used. Shuco Shampoo is a perfect saponification suspended in a solution that easily changes into a bushel of rich, creamy, bubbling and sparkling lather.

Apply to the moistened hair and rub well, adding water and shampoo as needed. It vanishes all dirt, dust and dandruff, rinses out quickly and perfectly, leaving the hair soft as velvet, light and fluffy. Your mirror will tell you why Shuco Shampoo makes hair with a thousand lights. At any good drug store.—(adv.)

WHAT WE KNOW ABOUT FOOD

has come down through centuries of study and experiment. The most perfect foods for man are the whole wheat grain, green vegetables and fruits. Shredded Wheat Biscuit is 100 per cent whole wheat, nothing wasted or thrown away. Here is a perfect luncheon: Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk, a dish of lettuce salad, a dish of sliced oranges—strengthening, satisfying and easily digested. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked and ready-to-eat.

Good Paint Is Worth Far More Than It Costs.

CONSERVATION and PAINT

Never before in the history of our country has painting been of greater importance than right now.

The cost of construction has increased, both in labor and materials, to figures never before heard of, and your buildings being worth more is all the more reason why you should keep them protected against decay and consequent depreciation.

FARM LABOR SHORTAGE.

Authorities are quite generally agreed that the country is threatened with a serious food shortage next winter, due very largely to the scarcity of labor on the farm—whence comes the bulk of the world's food supply.

It is the consensus of opinion, furthermore, that unless the farm labor situation is ameliorated meanwhile the food shortage will be even more acute in 1921-22 than following the harvest of this year's crops.

A middle western farmer who was interviewed recently by a correspondent for The New York Evening Post, and whose sentiments were quoted as being typical of those of the American ruralists generally, expressed his attitude as follows:

"I have about two-thirds the acreage of last year, and my neighbors all have less. We are going to cooperate and do our own work as far as we can and the wheat we can't harvest can rot, so far as I am concerned—what's the use of gathering it at a loss? And next fall I am going to sow less. I can't get help, and can't do it all myself."

This farmer attributes the farm labor shortage not so much to the scarcity of available men as to the disinclination of laborers to give a full day's honest work for a full day's pay.

"They seem," he said, "to be putting in time nowadays seeing how little they can do instead of how much. I went to town the other day to get two men. In front of the movie at the afternoon matinee were probably forty husky youths waiting for the doors to open—not one of 'em would work on a farm. The time is going to come some day when they will be lining up in front of the newspaper offices waiting for a look at the help wanted ads—and the sooner it comes the better, according to my notion. Then we shall be able to produce something near what we ought."

In a "letter to the editor" of The San Francisco Chroncle, a Tulane, Cal., farmer, discussing the labor situation in general and that pertaining to food production in particular, calls attention to the "spectacle of the overcrowded cities and towns joy-riding on an eight-hour day and eight hours' wages, while a handful of farmers, deserted by help, are working sixteen hours a day in a futile effort to keep up the supply," which, he believes, "is going to end in something decidedly unpleasant."

"Don't ask why the farmer does not compete in the matter of wages and hours," he admonishes the editor; for "only a Rockefeller could buy his stuff if he did."

Then the writer points out a few striking instances of what he terms "human waste" in the cities, such, for example, as—

"Able-bodied Italians blacking boots who ought to be raising vegetables, potbellied drummers selling ladies' underwear, that a woman could handle as well; two or three able-bodied men serving food that one little red-headed waitress could serve in less time; overnumerous porters, taxicab drivers, flunkies and parasites too numerous to mention."

And he concludes that—

"Anyhow, farmers and their wives are philosophically cutting down their production to what they can handle themselves, and handle without killing themselves."

It is one thing, he asserts—

"To work sixteen hours a day to feed a son or brother in France, but quite another to work sixteen hours a day to feed a striking plumber who is already getting a dollar an hour. I fear the time is coming when the cities will have to reform or go hungry—or import enough contract Chinamen to work the farms."

There is more than mere rhetoric and casual opinion in what this farmer has to say. There is truth in it—truth and sound logic—and every citizen, urban or rural, and especially every citizen who has children or other dependents to ration during the next few years, would do well to give it thought.

LANDLORDS AND BABIES.

Marietta, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) The owner of one of Marietta's leading apartment houses, who lives in the building himself and has a family of five sturdy youngsters, makes it a standing practice to annually notify his married tenants that if they "don't make a showing in the form of a family increase" their rent will be raised. He wants the world to know that babies have preference over dogs in his apartment house.

This news item follows close after a similar report from Augusta, in which it was stated that the directors of a company which has a large apartment house in course of construction in that city had notified their rental agents "to advertise that parents of children will be especially welcomed" in the new building.

The directors made it plain that "'little fairies in you home' will be an especial recommendation for those who may wish to become tenants."

Further than that, these baby-loving landlords instructed their agents—

"To prominently advertise in the newspapers that they desired to present to the first baby born in the Broadway apartments the finest baby carriage that can be purchased in the Augusta market, and the resolution shows that in the event that the first born are twins, there shall be two baby carriages. The tenants other than the tenants who have children are put on notice that while children will not be permitted to disturb or aggravate, those who do not like children and who 'cannot stand' children had better seek quarters elsewhere."

All this follows The Constitutions editorial comment on the publication of a "want ad" in a recent issue of The Constitution, in which a discouraged and leg-weary apartment-hunter advertised "two beautiful babies" for exchange "for one or two poodle dogs" because his family "had to have" quarters in which to live, and because they had been unable to find desirable apartments in Atlanta where children were welcome, although no objection was offered to pet dogs.

If every apartment house proprietor shaped his policy according to the spirit that actuates these two of Marietta and Augusta, it would not be long until urban home-life generally would be sweeter; the world would be proportionately brighter, and everybody would be infinitely happier.

Make way for the children!

Take down the offensive embargo, "No children wanted."

Put up an embargo against the landlord who excludes children.

The Marietta landlord has the true solution of the problem. Would that there were more such.

OKLAHOMA DYNAMITERS.

Georgia agricultural and peace authorities may sympathize with those of our sister southern state of Oklahoma, where the dynamiting of cattle dipping vats has become of such frequent and general occurence in one county that the president of the state department of agriculture has appealed to the governor to declare martial law to check it and preserve order.

The perturbed official declared to the governor that the farmers in three townships of the county in question "are in open defiance of the law" relative to the dipping of catttle as a means of Texas fever tick eradication, and vats are being blown up as fast as the authorities can install them.

Conditions were never quite as bad as that in Georgia; but many vats were destroyed and several near-tragedies were enacted before some of the reactionary and obstructionist farmers of the one-time tick-infested counties of south Georgia yielded to the spirit of progress and allowed themselves to become educated to the fact that the campaign against the cattle tick was being waged for the benefit of the farmers themselves and that of the live stock industry and the community at large, after which opposition disappeared.

So it will be in Oklahoma, for human nature is similar wherever it is found and rural communities of the south are pretty much alike.

And it will not be long, thanks to the preseverence and progressive purpose of southern public officials and right-thinking citizens, until the cattle tick will be totally eradicated from the south.

Of course, all candidates are for the merit system before election day. After that, judging from their actions, they are about evenly divided.

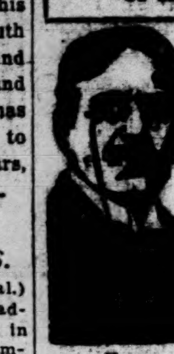

The man with his hat in his hand is hoping to fill it with straw votes.

The home garden is also a fine thing for Spring to freeze to.

Another phase of the housing, home-supply question is in working to help build up the country.

COMMENCEMENT

Another June I saw well-ordered rows
Of youth like these, not grave in cap and gown
But uniformed in work-day, earth-hued brown,
Who faced like these their yet unglimpsed dread foes,
Their weapons in their hands; again, like these,
Armed with the Spirit, that white flame of Truth
That burns within the valiant heart of Youth—
They stood, they went, they crossed the swaying seas * * *
And June has come again, and youth looks forth,
These even as those, who faced another June,
While roses reddened and birds sang in tune,
The foes they vanquished at the cost of life—
That little thing we lose in every strife,
Haply achieving things of better worth.

POLICE STOP SEARCH FOR ALLEGED SUICIDE

Two days and nights of dragging the streams of the Chattahoochee river and running down every possible clue in their efforts to find the body of John White, supposed to have committed suicide by drowning himself in the river, have convinced county officers that the man did not take his life; or at least, that he did not drown in the Chattahoochee. A coat, supposed to have been that of Mr. White, was found on the bridge over the river by a motorman of the street railway about 12 o'clock Thursday morning. In this coat was a letter addressed to Mrs. Kate White, of Chicago. The note suggested suicidal intent on the part of the writer.

.·. Bits of New York Life .·.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, May 30.—There is a fascination in prowling about the two big railroad stations in New York—the Grand Central and the Pennsylvania—that surpasses the enchantment of the metropolis itself. There is romance, excitement and a hundred other thrills in the mortal scurry and dash. Even the calm and unruffled serenity and the dignified manner of the train caller who gazes unperturbed upon a thousand emotions is worth at least an hour's study.

The person who presides over the bulletin board is a person of mystery. He looks so bored at all about him. One asks him a question. Not a facial line changes and he walks away. You feel rebuffed, whipped. Then suddenly he will turn and bark out an answer. Perhaps he will toss you a half sneer for good measure.

That man rushing down the concourse looking about furtively may be another Nickey Arnstein or he may be a Bayside commuter dodging his tailor. Then there is that desperate and curious limbo known as the "exit course" where baffled creatures wait to meet others arriving on trains and maledict the architect who planned matters so that the passengers arrive on two sides at once, so that one stands grievously in the middle slowing his eyes to one side and another in a kind of vertigo, attempting to scan both exits.

Then the newly-married. In New York there seem to be several pairs of newlywed for each train. That air of easy nonchalance they assume. The husband, to masquerade the truth, may even speak gruffly to her. But the rice in his hat brim gives him away.

Those fearful orges at the gates. How forbidding they look. They seem to be patterened after the Sphinx in temperament. And O my how they do hate to part with words. Perhaps they save them for evening when they collect around the parlor lamp.

A crowd collects. It may be William J. Bryan or it may be Tillie Twinkletoes, the celebrated midnight dancer. There races another group—some with pads and pencils out—following some celebrity to the very door of his car. Now and then there is a shot, a race across platforms, a woman carrying a child, a husband in chains. The heart beats wildly. Then you see the cameramen bringing up the rear. You turn foolishly for some new thrill without the touch of the movie director.

The waiting rooms. Tired old women. Sleepy mothers with bedraggled children smearing her skirt with remnants of cherry pie. Fussy old parties who walk about like penguins. A herd of immigrants. Eating raw bread and seemingly alive with new emotions in a new world. Then the rush to the gates when the train arrives.

Gil Boag! What a snappy name for a producer. He used to be a newspaper man, and like the rest of his ilk, he is a gentleman. O yes, there are exceptions. Gil Boag has produced the best musical play in New York in "Lassies." One reason it will have a long run is because it is clean. There are no flashes of silk tights, bare backs and feet. There are instead beautiful gowns, gorgeous scenery and a gentle atmosphere of sweetness. "Lassies" got the most flattering notices of any musical play of the season. Gil Boag used to be a reporter on The American. He drifted out of newspaper work and made three Broadway restaurants—the Palais Royal, Moulin Rouge and the Little Club. That was just a start. He has always wanted to produce and he got his chance and went to it like a shot.

Regulus returned to Carthage and the scene is embalmed in the pages of Cicero and Livy.

Rip Van Winkle returned to his village, and people still read Irving just to know about it.

Enoch Arden returned home and gave Tennyson a chance to write a most popular poem. Who shall make immortal the greatest of all returns?

For Nicky Arnstein is back, brave as Regulus, romantic as Enoch and mayhap rheumatic as Rip.

He was the same old Nicky of the white lights. In his cell in Ludlow he asked for rare chops, golden brown coffee and the best desserts and he said "cawnt" and "rawther"—all with the English drawl.

Any fiction writer would be laughed to scorn if he had essayed the role Nicky has played in the underworld life of Manhattan. Even his ride down Fifth avenue during the police parade, bowing to the police, could not be done in the movies for fear of ridicule.

DEMOCRATS AND—WHAT?
(From The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal.)

The Palmer delegates of the Georgia democrats will go to San Francisco with the regular credentials. They have been duly signed by the secretary of the state executive committee and indorsed by sixty-six of the sixty-seven members. This is in accordance with the instructions under which the primary was held. Under these instructions Palmer is entitled to the delegates to the national convention, he having received a clear plurality of votes over Tom Watson and Hoke Smith.

The combination of Watson and Smith to repudiate the instructions under which they went into the primary was made in the bond of a common hatred of the president. Their undertaking to send to San Francisco an anti-Palmer, anti-Wilson, anti-league of nations delegation is based upon nothing stronger than the bad faith of two minorities to unite for the single purpose of destroying the rights of a plurality. It is not likely that their dishonor will be sanctioned at San Francisco.

Their action is not properly to be ascribed to the democrats of Georgia and it is not so ascribed except by a few Wilsonphobes like The New York Sun. It would sharply differentiate the Georgia democrats from the other democrats who have held state primaries or conventions, all of these having commended the Wilson administration and demanded a league of nations.

OUR POLITICAL PARTY FIRST.
(From The Hazlehurst News.)

The News was a supporter of Senator Smith and thought he was telling the truth when he stated from the stump in Georgia before the recent primary that he was an advocate of the present administration in its many achievements but was against the league of nations without reservations, and from him we came to the conclusion that the reservations he favored merely added strength to the peace treaty.

Since the state convention, which was ruled by Thomas E. Watson and which repudiated the government in its entirety and the senior senator's statement that "he is proud of what they did," we cannot follow him further.

We believe the senator has made a great mistake and his present attitude certainly makes it plain that the charges made against him before the primary are true.

TOM HARDWICK.
(From The West Point News.)

The not unexpected entrance of Tom Hardwick into the race for governor puts the patriotic people of Georgia on notice that the forces which opposed the successful prosecution of the war against Germany still persist in their efforts to get control of Georgia politics.

Hardwick, who at one time misrepresented the state in the senate of the United States, used every power and influence given him by that great office to prevent the sending of supplies of food, clothing, arms and ammunition to the thousands of Georgia boys then in France offering their lives as a sacrifice to scotch the wheels of the German war machine then rolling across the plains of France to the conquest of the world.

Could the brain of the devil himself have conceived a more infamous, a more diabolical scheme than this?

What do the people who had husbands, sons and brothers facing the iron hail and seeth-fire of the German trenches think of this effort of Hardwick to deliver their patriotic sons into the hands of the savage Hun? Hardwick's policy would have delivered them as prisoners of war to starve and die under the whip lash of Prussian taskmasters. The tattered remnant which would have remained of the American expeditionary forces would have returned to us with flags trailing in the dust of humiliation and defeat, had Hardwick's advice been followed.

What think you, voters of Georgia, of the man who would have left your boys in the trenches of France without food, without clothing, without arms and without ammunition, to fall prey to the legions of the autocratic Caesar of the Huns?

While millions of our bravest and best young manhood were in the army, and while millions on multiplied millions of true Americans were subscribing for vast sums of "liberty bonds" to sustain the rights and the honor of Americans, this man Hardwick was skulking in the rear, hatching dark schemes to impede the successful prosecution of the war.

Will the people of Georgia vote for a man of that stripe? If they do, the election of Benedict Arnold to the presidency of the United States after the revolutionary war would not have been so surprising.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

AUTOBABYOGRAPHY—22 TEETHING.

The two chief dangers for a baby surrounded by the gossips of the neighborhood are teething and colic. No matter what ails him, nor whether anything ails him, it is "teething," as any old woman will assure any mother so careless or gullible as to listen. But if, perchance, it proves not to be "teething" after all, as it invariably does prove if the baby does not succumb to the old woman's treatment, then there is no doubt in the world it is "colic," and worse yet, "wind colic"—though what other varieties of colic there may be in a fishwife's lexicon I cannot tell you, nor can my dad. "Why," the old women declare, "it's as plain as the nose on your face"—and honest, now, isn't everything else on the face plainer than the nose?—"just as plain as the nose on your face the poor critter has the wind colic, for can't you see him drawing up his legs? That shows his stomach hurts him!" We babies do draw up our legs whenever we cry vigorously, and lots of times when we don't cry. It is one of the few ways we have to get a little exercise. Don't know why, but most mothers and most doctors, too, seem to think a baby needs no exercise at all, and they dress us accordingly. "If I was in your place, ma'am, I'd send right over to the store and get some colic, teething and worm cure for that baby, so I would."

Thus it happens that many a poor little tike is started in on the morphine or opium habit right early.

Educated folks nowadays know that "teething" is a natural, normal, physiological incident, and never the cause of any illness. Yet here recently a fellow of the Royal Georgraphical society, or something like that, published a suggestion "to all writers of 'How to Keep Well,'" in which he cited Professor Garner's claim that gorrillas have a language of their own and expatiate on the knowledge man might acquire from the apes. "What, for example, does the gorrilla mother do when her baby has the stomach ache? How does she ease the pain of a teething child."

The gorrilla baby probably never has the stomach ache, because his mother knows how to feed him. And a gorrilla mother would probably tell you to quit monkeying if you tried to make her believe it hurts a baby to grow teeth. Whether gorrillas have their own language we may well leave for Professor Garner to establish. Meanwhile why not credit the simians at least with the wisdom of natural instinct?

The notion that "cutting teeth" accounts for a baby's illnes is wickedly false and leads to deplorable neglect and maltreatment when babies really are ill.

The use of so-called teething rings of any kind is harmful, first, because these things cannot be kept clean and are sure to carry infection from floor or surroundings into the mouth of the baby; second, because teething rings, or other objects used to rub the gums (especially fingers) make the gums sore and in no wise hasten the eruption of teeth.

"Teething" as an explanation of sickness in infancy is just as nonsensical as would be the color of the baby's hair.

Holmes Institute Will Ask $50,000 For New Building

A campaign to raise $50,000 for the erection of a new building for the Holmes institute was opened in St. Paul's church Sunday morning, at the close of the annual sermon preached by Rev. G. W. Williams, presiding elder of the Sandersville district of the A. M. E. church.

Rev. B. R. Holmes, president, spoke of the campaign, stating that the citizens of Atlanta would be asked to give $25,000, and the remainder would be raised out of the state. The campaign will be carried on by the citizens of Atlanta during the month of June.

Many subscriptions out of the state have been made on the condition that the citizens in the state contribute their share. Rev. C. G. Gray, pastor, made the closing address, promising $500 for the congregation of St. Paul's.

Rev. B. R. Holmes preached a very interesting sermon in Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church, Sunday evening on subject, "But One Thing Needful." Rev. W. J. Williams, chairman of the board urged the large audience to give liberal to the building fund of the institute. The church pledged $100.

PLAN TO ENTERTAIN VISITING MUSICIANS

The Atlanta Woman's club will entertain at a luncheon on Wednesday, June 2, at 1 o'clock, at 946 Peachtree street, the National Guild of Mandolinists, Banjoists and Guitarists. The old executive board of the Woman's club will assist the new board in the receiving line.

FRENCH WORKING HARD, SAYS PAUL ROCKWELL

Although living in France—at the present rate of exchange—15 francs for a dollar, against the pre-war 5—is cheap, it cannot last forever, and is probably injuring America's export trade as much as it is injuring Europe, is the opinion given in a letter from Paul Rockwell, former Atlantan and member of The Constitution staff, to a friend on the present staff.

Mr. Rockwell was one of the first Georgians, and really one of the first Americans, to enter the world war, as he enlisted in the foreign legion of France just a few days after the outbreak of war in August of 1914. His later wounds necessitated his retirement from active service, and he is now residing in Paris, where he was married to a wealthy French girl during the war. His brother, Kiffin, also well known in America, was killed during action with the famous Lafayette escadrille of the French air service. His death came just after he had been made a lieutenant, but he was never notified of his appointment.

"I have not lived a very active life this year," wrote Paul Rockwell, from the Villa des Iles d'Or, on the French Riviera, "but from all that I have seen, France is in fine condition, economically. The vast majority of the people are hard at work, and French exports are already at the 1913 figure, a wonderful fact, when one considers that the country is short about 2,000,000 able-bodied men, and that the richest industrial regions were entirely destroyed by the Germans.

"The 'reds' have tried to start a revolution this month, but met a decided check. There are too few 'bolsheviki' in France for Lenine's doctrine to succeed here. Most French people own land or have savings, and having something to lose, they do not look with favor upon social unheavals, such as the bolsheviki preach. The h. c. l. bothers us here as much as it does in America, but on the whole, one lives as cheaply here as in the United States. Americans coming to France, and getting 15 francs and more for a dollar, instead of the normal 5 francs, find things exceedingly cheap, but the exchange crisis cannot last forever, and I'm sure it injures America's export trade just as much as it injures Europe."

GEORGIA RED MEN AND POCAHONTAS WILL MEET HERE

Coincident with the coming of the Red Men of Georgia to Atlanta next month, the great council of the Degree of Pocahontas, the ladies' auxiliary of this popular order, will also meet here, the session having been transferred from Gainesville.

The opening session will be at 10 o'clock Tuesday, June 15, in the Red Men's Wigwam, and Miss Mable Smith, of Atlanta, will preside as Great Pocahontas. Much activity has marked the term now closing among the Pocahontas and it is probable there will be a large number of visiting ladies in Atlanta.

Hon. James T. Rogers, Great Incohonee, of Binghamton, N. Y., will be the guest of the great council. This is the first session since the great council was organized eight years ago, that the highest officer of the order in the United States has been in attendance, and his visit is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest among the members all over the state.

The great chiefs of the great council of Georgia are Great Pocahontas, Miss Mable Smith, Atlanta; Great Wenona, Mrs. Emma Bowden, Porterdale; Great Minnehaha, Miss Agnes Kalb, Wesley Chapel; great prophetess, Mrs. Ardelle Harden, Atlanta; great keeper of records, Mrs. Cora E. Smith, Atlanta; great keeper of wampum, Mrs. Sallie Gillett, Atlanta; great guard of teepee, Miss Mattie Polston, Lindale; great guard of forest, Miss Ola Aiken, New Holland.

New officers will be chosen at this session, and there will also be much new business transacted, and the session is being anticipated with great interest.

World Movement Holds Missionary Conference, June 25

Arrangements have been completed for the missionary education conference to be held at Blue Ridge from June 25 to July 5, by the interchurch world movement, according to announcement made yesterday by Dr. Howard T. Cree, secretary in charge. Advance reservations already indicate a capacity attendance.

Classes will be given in the study of the most recent books on foreign and home missions, while normal classes for advanced leaders will also afford unusual opportunities. The best methods will be discussed and demonstrated for Sunday school workers, young people's societies and similar organizations, while emphasis will be placed on rural problems.

All class work will be done in the morning, the afternoons being devoted to recreation—water sports, hikes and similar pastimes. Each evening the conference program calls for a lecture on a special topic related to mission study.

The registration office for the ten-day mission conference is in charge of Dr. Howard T Cree, 518 Peters building, Atlanta, Ga. Applications are now being received and information as to rates will be supplied on request. The speakers at the conference will include some of the best-known authorities on missions.

Lee Street School Pupils to Present Two Performances

The first of two presentations of a beautiful entertainment by pupils of the Lee Street school will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the school. The second performance will be given Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

About 150 children will participate in the program, which is as follows:

Daisy song and dance—first grades.
Operetta, "A Midsummer Night"—fourth and fifth grades.
Indian dance—second and third grades.
Play, "The Foolish Student"—seventh grade.
Aesthetic dance—Eloise Whitehead, seventh grade.
Dutch dance—seventh grade.
Play, "Hansel and Gretel"—second and third grades.
Music by sixth grade pupils and orchestra of special class.

VEGETABLE CELL LIFE TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Tuesday night, at 7:45 o'clock, at the Central Congregational church, a microscopic demonstration of the various forms of animal and vegetable cell life, will be given in connection with the regular program of the Applied Psychology Study club. The city bacteriologist, Mr. Acker, his assistant, Mr. Nixon, and Mr. Brenner, in charge of research work of the Buckeye Cotton Oil company, will operate the apparatus in the above connection. The public is invited.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETS THIS MORNING

This morning, at 10 o'clock, the finance committee of city council will meet to begin the work of compiling the June finance sheet. It is anticipated that the calls of various departments will be heavy, but increased revenue from general tax income is expected to render a retrenchment policy unnecessary.

Cast-Off Clothing Wanted For Near-East Sufferers

A solution to the problem of how to cram all your wardrobe, wearable and unwearable, into the meager confines of your trunk is offered by the Near East relief, which announces an old clothing campaign for the week beginning the sixth of May.

All the cast-off dresses which have cluttered up valuable closet space for the past year to the peril and destruction of new Eaton suits and accordion plaited capes can be discarded with good conscience, even in this day of strict economy. For the hopelessly out-of-date, shiny, frayed and even moth-eaten garments which the fear of extravagance makes you keep will be the saving of lives in faraway Armenia, where the people average little more than one garment apiece.

That warm "sensible" coat that you have been wearing off and on—generally "off"—since mother started you to college freshman year, will look very smart on some little Armenian maiden who has nothing but rags to protect her from the winter's cold.

The blue serge suit which shines as the noonday sun will grace most attractively some poor mother in Aintab who has had nothing resembling a whole garment since she was driven from her home in 1915.

That frightful tailor's concoction with the buttoned sleeves that you bought three years ago just because you were afraid to refuse the saleswoman who urged it upon you, can at last find a welcome wearer who will think it most becoming if it covers her half-bare and shivering body.

Even the old clothes which the moths and mice have bitten into and which you have been saving all year to wear on a hike "or something"—only never did—will be gladly received at the Near East headquarters.

Send to local headquarters of Near East relief or to national storeroom at 549 West 39th street, New York city.

UNION DEAD HONORED AT MARIETTA SUNDAY

Fifteen hundred people paid tribute to the union dead at Marietta National cemetery yesterday morning. Between 9 and 10 in the morning members and friends of O. M. Mitchell post, G. A. R.; U. C. V., Theodore Roosevelt camp, United Spanish War Veterans; American Legion, and the regular army were arriving. The regular troops rolled up in motor lorries. All fell into line behind Post Adjutant C. M. Scott at Marietta and proceeded in parade formation to the cemetery. Marietta girls got out their automobiles and gave the old and disabled quick trips to the cemetery. The procession was about half a mile long.

The women's relief corps, aided by the Spanish War veterans, took charge of the distribution of flowers, great masses of which had been sent in response to appeals. Two Spanish War Veteran camps, Theodore Roosevelt and Fitzhugh Lee camp, both of Atlanta, participated.

Following the roll call of 35 names of men who had died during the past year, a salute in honor of the dead was fired by the troops. A national salute of 21 guns was also fired. Music was furnished by the Fifth Division Consolidated band. Mrs. Byers gave a vocal solo.

Major General Shanks, commanding the Fifth division, now stationed at Camp Gordon, delivered a brief address. He was followed by several other speakers, including Commander A. M. Crosby, of O. M. Mitchell post No. 1, G. A. R., the organization conducting the services; Colonel J. Colton Lynes, past A. A. G., U. C. V.; Captain Henry F. Schroeder, Theodore Roosevelt camp, United Spanish War Veterans; Major Trammell Scott, Atlanta post No. 1, American Legion; Major Chaplain George C. Stull, Fifth division.

Fitzhugh Lee camp arrived in a special car loaded in addition to their own members with the ladies' auxiliary of their camp, known as the Helen Gould auxiliary. The two organizations held a special service of their own at the Fitzhugh Lee graves, and later had lunch at the cemetery.

FEDERAL WORKERS TO PICNIC TODAY AT JESTER'S MILL

Appropriate addresses by Mayor Key and other speakers, a big picnic, various sports, games, and dances, are only a few features of the all-day outing for federal employees to be held today at Jester's old mill.

A band from Camp Jessup will furnish dance music. The lake will be open for swimming, boating and fishing. After the dinner hour, various kinds of races for men, women and children will be held.

The employees of the various government departments in and around Atlanta desiring to go are asked to gather at the Candler warehouses, in West End, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, where government motor trucks will be waiting to transport them to the picnic grounds, which are about 17 miles from Atlanta.

ATLANTA TYPOS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES SUNDAY

The Atlanta Typographical union held its annual memorial service yesterday afternoon at the printers' lot in Oakland cemetery. The principal address on the program was delivered by Rev. John W. Ham, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle.

Rev. Mr. Ham paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the deceased members and spoke of the devotion of brotherhood that expressed itself in the memorial.

Following the address the woman's auxiliary decorated the graves. A list of the deceased was then read, after which Mrs. W. E. Lomax read a tribute to the memory of those departed. The service came to an end with the song, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the benediction.

Women of Atlanta Keenly Interested In Committee Meet

Keen interest on the part of the women of Atlanta centers in the meeting of the city democratic executive committee, which is scheduled to be held Tuesday night, at 7:30 o'clock, in the council chamber of the city hall, since principal among the questions which the body will consider will be that of allowing the women the right to vote in the coming city primary. A date for the primary will probably be set at the meeting.

Representatives of the women, accompanied by Mayor Key, will go before the committee and request that it stand by the precedent established last year, when the women were permitted to vote in the municipal primary. One of the women leaders who will appear before the committee will be Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia League of Women Voters, a pioneer in the effort to obtain suffrage for women in this state.

It is understood that the mayor will ask the committee to extend the privilege of voting to qualified voters who may find it necessary to be absent from the city at the time of the primary. W. H. Johnson is chairman of the committee.

JUDGE G. H. HOWARD RESIGNS JUDGESHIP

Columbus, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Judge G. H. Howard, of the Chattahoochee circuit, tonight stated that he will shortly make announcement of his retirement from the race for re-election. He gives as his reason for retiring that private law practice again calls him. He is opposed by Judge George P. Munro, of Buena Vista, who made an enviable record on the superior court bench while filling an unexpired term.

George C. Palmer, former solicitor general of the Chattahoochee circuit, stated tonight that advances are being made by his friends to have him announce for the judgeship, and that he has promised to take the matter under advisement.

FINANCES OF STATE ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

A balance of the total estimated revenues against the total appropriations for 1920, as compiled by State Comptroller William A. Wright, in the report he is about to submit to Governor Dorsey, discloses a deficit of $606,824.63. Appropriations already made for 1920 amount to $9,704,616.50. Total estimated revenues are $8,467,791.87.

General Wright, however, is easy on the score of the deficit, pointing out that the appropriations have been made for work to be done in 1920, whereas the revenues have been estimated on the basis of 1919 valuations. He declared that the state tax commissioner told him that he hopes to increase the assessed value of property by no less than $235,000,000, an increase which would bring the revenues up $1,092,750. In that event the deficit would be replaced by a surplus which would be used to cover any additional appropriations made at the coming session of the legislature.

The report declares that on January 1, 1920, there was a balance in the treasury of $909,625.64. From this should be subtracted $100,000 of sinking fund money which cannot be used except for retiring the principal of the public debt.

In discussing the increased valuation of property, General Wright gives an interesting table, contrasting increases in certain items from the century between 1818 and 1919 in Georgia. Town and city real estate increased from $49,007,286 to $305,067,976; railroad property increased from $9,866,129 to $163,016,189; cotton factories increased from about $1,600,000 to almost $58,000,000; bank capital went up from $4,600,000 to more than $41,000,000.

Cotton Manufacturers Of Georgia Will Hold Convention in Quebec

The twentieth annual meeting of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia will be held in Quebec, Canada, June 29 and 30, according to an announcement made Saturday by President D. A. Jewell, of Chickamauga. More than one hundred members of the association will make the trip.

One of the outstanding features of the gathering of the Georgia association will be an address by Sir Charles Gordon, who is at the head of the Canadian Textile corporation, Limited, of Montreal.

A large number of the wives of association members will make the trip. Many touring parties will be made up following the close of the convention, to explore the beauties of the St. Lawrence region and the many points of historical interest which abound.

E. G. Chesbrough, general agent of the Canadian Pacific railroad for the South Atlantic states with headquarters in the Healey building, is personally handling the arrangements for the trip across the Dominion border. The Canadian Pacific will furnish a specially equipped train from Detroit to Quebec, with a stop-over at Montreal. The hotel accommodations and convention quarters in Quebec will also be furnished by the Canadian Pacific in its sumptuous Chateau Frontenac, one of the most beautiful and strikingly located hotels in the east.

The Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia is closing one of the most successful years of its existence under the direction of D. A. Jewell, as president; J. A. Mandeville, of Carrollton, first vice president; Clifford Swift, of Columbus, second vice president; Cason J. Calloway, of LaGrange, third vice president, and P. E. Glenn, of the Exposition Cotton mills, Atlanta, secretary and treasurer.

Life Insurers Will Hear Reports Monday On Membership Drive

Results of the membership drive of the Atlanta Association of Life Insurance Underwriters, in progress the past ten days, will be announced at the luncheon-meeting which takes place at 12:30 this afternoon in the assembly room of the chamber of commerce.

The value of membership in the association will be pointed out by Frank Lowe, B. F. Fraser and Roy Le Craw.

ATLANTA LAW SCHOOL SENIORS GIVE BANQUET

The senior class of the Atlanta Law school held an elaborate banquet at the Kimball house Saturday evening, May 29, with Thomas W. Hardwick, ex-United States senator, and Hamilton Douglas, Sr., dean of the school, as honor guests. G. Seals Aiken, president of the class, acted as toastmaster, and struck the keynote of the meeting in an appeal for the continuation of the great record of the class. Music was furnished by an orchestra.

The toastmaster called upon Mr. Douglas to introduce Mr. Hardwick, which he did in a most able manner. Mr. Hardwick responded giving words of encouragement and advice. Many members of the class were then called upon for talks.

Following the speaking, Robert C. W. Ramspeck moved that the 1920 class continue its present organization, that each member write one letter each month to some other member of the class, and that a banquet be held each year at commencement with an invitation to the alumni. The following officers were then elected: Robert C. W. Ramspeck, of Decatur, Ga., president; H. C. Morgan, Homerville, Ga., vice president, and W. M. Lester, Prosperity, S. C., secretary and treasurer.

Many of the students brought their young lady friends. Among those present were: Thomas W. Hardwick, Hamilton Douglas, Sr., J. C. Glenn, Robert C. W. Ramspeck, A. H. Shoupe, M. M. Anderson, H. C. Morgan, C. H. Cushman, B. B. Heery, H. M. Johnson, W. J. Melton, H. S. Darrington, B. F. Sweet, G. Seals Aiken, W. M. Lester, W. K. Phillips, L. M. Shimoff, G. C. Wheeler, H. H. Whelchel, Misses Edna Pope, Dorothy Orr, Louise Entreken, Pauline Entreken and Mr. W. K. Phillips.

VALUE OF EDUCATION SHOWN BY DR. STINSON

Monroe, Ga., May 30.—(Special.) Rev. Richard D. Stinson, head of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, preaching the annual school sermon to the faculty and students of the colored school here today, of which W. D. Lawrence is principal, said:

"The proper education rightly imparted has been and is now a great factor in helping our people toward good citizenship. All good people should appreciate this fact. Negro leaders sin against themselves and our race when they become self-centered, and do not appreciate in the highest sense this truth. The race must realize that its moral aspect as it relates to home life, honesty and the ability to work six days in the week has all to do with what their future success will be in this life and the life to come.

"I am not unmindful of the disadvantages under which we labor and yet I doubt if mere mentioning it accomplishes as much good as if we lived and worked our way out. All peoples have had their day of trial, temptation and tribulation, but it is certain that God will permit right only to triumph. The accomplishments of our people since 1865, and nowhere more than in the south, are not to be despised. We have friends in every community where we live who would not be parties to any injustice put upon us if they knew it. In the words of another, every negro has his white friends and every white man has his negro friends who will stand by each other as long as it is reasonably possible.

"We are at the point where the younger generations must not get the wrong impressions, for, conditions may change. Things that relate to mankind may change, but God and fundamental principles of character and righteousness go on. Our duty is to do right, whoever goes wrong; it is our duty to stick to those principles which will make for us a certain hereafter. Education ough tto mean more and should be appreciated more highly by the colored youth than the youth of other races, because they have had less of it and are more greatly in need of it than anyone else. Eighty-five per cent of us make no mistake when we seek to do better and more extensively the things our grandparents did; the simple things of life that we can do best and the things that pay in this life, rather than attempt the things that dreaming, imagination and uncertainty prompt. For, after all, whatever may be said or done, we are no stronger than we really are. We are the same persons whether we wear a 15-cent pair of socks or a pair for a dollar and a half.

"We must not weary ourselves and others about what the future is going to bring forth. Everything will end well that does well. Everything will come out all right that is carried on rightly. Let each one of us do our part faithfully and well and the reward of righteousness whether of God or man will come."

LITTLE RELIEF FROM REIGN OF HIGH PRICES

ductions of prices. The transportation and associated difficulties noted elsewhere in the country appear to be especially acute in the Chicago district, while the labor situation shows small improvement.

"No. 8 (St. Louis)—The volume of business is enormous, the total in both manufacturing and distribution showing broad gains over the corresponding period last year. The peak of the upward movement is however, believed to be reached. Productive conditions have been unfavorable agriculturally.

"No. 12 (Kansas City)—There was during April the first 'real recession from the high tide of activity' of the past year or more. There has been a curtailed movement of live stock and grain, resulting from bad transaction conditions accompanied by severe financial hardships upon producers and shippers. Retail trade has slowed down, but the general situation is regarded as one of encouragement, although more or less unsettled conditions are expected to prevail during readjustment.

"No. 11 (Dallas)—There has been a slowing up of agricultural, business and financial operations, which, however, has had some beneficial effect. Prices have continued upward, but the falling off in demand has affected largely the higher priced articles. There is recognition of a healthy spirit of caution among bank borrowers and users of capital."

MEMPHIS TAKES 3D STRAIGHT

Memphis, Tenn., May 30.—(Special.)—In the wake of the charging Chickasaws tonight lies left-handed Johnny Suggs, a pitching Cracker, and a dozen other Crackers. They fell this afternoon at Russwood park when the rampaging tribesmen scored their seventh straight victory by crushing the Crackers' score, 5 to 1, in a game curtailed in the eighth inning account of rain. Two Chicks had gone out in the eighth, and Polly McLarry was at bat when a shower turned into a full-grown rain, and Umpire Bill Brennan called the game. A dark cloud hovered over Red Elm bottom in the sixth inning, and from then on the game was played under a handicap to the batters and fielders, but much to the advantage of the pitchers. Brennan hurried the show along and managed to crowd in almost eight full innings.

Crackers Score.

As was the case the previous day, the Crackers scored one run in the first inning, and did not score thereafter. A double by Brazill and Charlie High's double counted the lone Cracker score. Thweatt allowed three scattered hits in the next seven innings, and the Crackers threatened but three more times. The only Cracker to get as far as third base after the first inning was Wingo, in the third, who doubled with one out and later went to third on an error by Andy High, but Charlie High, a brother of Andy, grounded out for the third out.

Led by Captain McLarry, the tribesmen lit upon Johnny Suggs in the first inning, and stayed upon him until he was removed. The Chicks hit Suggs safely in every inning. Ten tribesmen were left stranded on the bases in the first seven sessions. Captain McLarry, who led the assault on Suggs with two doubles and a single, gave an exhibition of ambidextrous swatting, securing the two doubles by swatting from the right side, and securing his single by swatting from the left side, his natural batting position. With two out in the first inning, McLarry, batting right-handed, doubled into the crowd in center field. It soared over Mayer's head and would have been good for a triple but for the ground rules restricting a hit into the overflow crowd to two bases. Griffin followed with a double into the crowd in left field, and the game was ended.

Although they had a two-run working margin, the tribesmen showed no signs of mercy for Suggs. Thweatt opened the fourth with a grounder to Brazill and went to second when the Crackers' keystone tender heaved over Kauffman's head at first. Blades sacrificed Thweatt to third and Dixie Carroll scored him with a double to left center. Bischoff opened the fifth with a single, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on a sacrifice by Andy High and scored when Gil Meyers doubled into the crowd down the left-field line. McLarry secured his second double with two down in the sixth, and Griffin went out on a line drive that staggered King at short.

The Chicks stood loyally by Thweatt with a brilliant fielding game, although "Big Bill" needed but little assistance. He did not give a base on balls, and was especially strong with Crackers in position to score.

Vols Lose to Pels.

Nashville, Tenn., May 30.—After Nashville knocked Phillips out of the box in the ninth, tieing the score, New Orleans came back and bunched three hits off Hodge for two runs, winning from Nashville, 7 to 5, in the tenth. Kohlbecker's pinch two-bagger tied the score for Nashville, while Allen's two-bagger won the game for New Orleans. The throwing of Farmer and Wickham featured the game, three runs being cut down at third base.

MEMPHIS HAS SHOWN BEST FORM

The winning form that the Memphis Chickasaws began to display some three weeks ago after a temporary slump had ousted them from the leadership of the Southern association, culminated during last week in seven straight victories. Meeting Birmingham and Atlanta in Memphis, the Chicks outplayed their opponents in every department of the game and gained a wider margin in the race than probably any other club has held thus far this season. The last game Memphis lost was Sunday a week ago.

Mobile, still playing a steady game despite the loss of Outfielder Ducote, who sprained his leg in Nashville Thursday, managed to hold on to second position by winning four and losing three since last Sunday. The Bears playing abroad, met Nashville and Chattanooga.

Little Rock and New Orleans swept into the first division, each winning four and losing two games. Little Rock playing at home, met Atlanta and Birmingham. The Pelicans on the road played Chattanooga and Nashville.

The spectacular flash of form by which the Atlanta Crackers started their road trip a fortnight ago, winning five out of the first six games, gave way to a decided slump, and they dropped six games and won one. The Crackers played in Little Rock and Memphis.

Birmingham's fall was even more unexpected, for the club had been going at a consistent pace for several weeks. They dropped five games and took only one last week playing in Memphis and Little Rock.

Nashville in its home park, won three and lost four contests, in games with Mobile and New Orleans.

Chattanooga's home stay did the team but little good, for only two games came their way to four defeats. The Lookouts entertained New Orleans and Mobile.

A glance at figures compiled from the box scores of the seven consecutive victories of the Memphis club shows that the players deserved to win. In only two of the games was the Chicks' attack strong enough to drive the opposing pitcher from the box, but in the seven games they piled up twenty-eight runs, sixty-two hits and made nine errors, to nine runs, forty-three hits and twenty errors for their opponents. In none of the games was it necessary for a Memphis pitcher to be relieved. Goodbred, Albris and Thweatt each won two games, while Vance won the one he pitched. Timely hitting against good pitching marked most of the Memphis victories.

Good pitching aided Little Rock's rise, and the teams' heavy hitters, particularly Catcher Brottem, were great factors. The New Orleans club also had good work in the box and one of its victories was due to a home run by Pitcher Torkelson.

Lookouts Win.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 30.—York won his first victory of the season today, pitching steady ball in the pinches in the face of discouraging support, and defeating Mobile, 5 to 3. Lukonovic's wild throw in the fifth following a double by Gleason gave the home team the winning run. York struck out ten men.

TRAVELERS FIGHT HARD FOR SMITH

Little Rock, Ark., May 30.—(Special.)—An offer to President Martin to prove that he is innocent of any misconduct that would justify his being barred from the Southern league or any other league, was made here today by Casey Smith, Little Rock pitcher, who yesterday was declared by President Martin to be ineligible to play in the Southern. The offer was made through attorneys for the Little Rock club and for Smith. In an affidavit sworn to by Smith here today, he positively denies having gambled on ball games or having been connected with gambling on games.

Smith and Manager Elberfeld will go to Memphis Tuesday to appeal to President Martin to reconsider his action in barring Smith and to give the player a hearing and a chance to prove his innocence.

President R. G. Allen, of the Little Rock club, today made a statement in which he declared that he is convinced of the innocence of Smith.

"I want it made clear that I have signed Smith after I was convinced that he is innocent of any offense against baseball. I certainly would not want a man on my club whom I could not trust to give me his best efforts.

"It appears to me that the other men of this league who are fighting Smith are not sincere and that instead of fighting him they are fighting me in my efforts to build up a strong club for Little Rock. The interest that rival club owners and managers are taking in this case is absurd on the face of it, for if Smith were the sort of player who would connive with the gamblers, it would be my interests that would be hurt, while the interests of the other seven clubs would be benefited. If Smith could be induced to throw games that would damage the Little Rock chances to win and would remove my club from the pennant race.

"I have examined Smith and my attorneys have questioned him, and I have been impressed with his statements, and am convinced that he has been done one injustice and is threatened with another."

St. Louis, May 30.—Detroit made a clean sweep of the series with St. Louis, winning today, 6 to 2. It was the seventh straight defeat for the locals. Veach drove a home run into the rightfield stands in the seventh, scoring Jones, who had singled ahead of him.

Agoga Class "Athletic Day"

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

Was a Tremendous Success

The sporting columns of a newspaper might not be the proper place to offer an account of a celebration held in a church, but as long as the event about to be described was dedicated to the championship basketball team of the Agoga Sunday school class, of the Baptist Tabernacle, we feel entirely justified in telling the readers of these columns of the great success of the celebration in the class room of the Agogas yesterday morning.

We have heard some good speaking in our few years on this mortal coil; we have heard Brother Morgan Blake discourse in his oratorical vein on every subject in creation, from the latest bits of fashion to the driest morsel of a prohibition argument, but never have we heard our distinguished afternoon contemporary use more eloquent phrases than he did yesterday; nor have we ever seen Mr. Blake speaking to a more appreciative audience than that composed of the Agogas, their sponsors, their "little sisters" and the friends who have watched the progress of these sterling young athletes and Christian gentlemen.

Presented Trophy.

Mr. Blake had charge of presenting the team with the city championship trophy, a beautiful silver loving cup, and his speech was filled with words of praise for the hard fighting quintet that swept through all opposition to the top of the basketeers in Atlanta. It was a great team, composed of young athletes who believe in a hard, but clean fight, and Mr. Blake's presentation speech was a gem. His admiration for the athletes was told without the superfluous phrases and over-eloquent efforts of the unpolished public speaker, and his words were received with continued applause by the scores of Agogas who turned out to honor their champions.

The writer is sorry that Mr. Blake was not asked to sing a solo. Not many of his friends in Atlanta, except a favored few of the policemen that patrol the beat in front of the Y. M. C. A., where Mr. Blake lays his weary head after the day's chores are done, are aware of the fact that the great niblick shot has a voice that is out of the ordinary.

List' to the Cooking Pan.

During the training season at Bay St. Louis the players asked Mr. Blake to sing "Kathleen Mavourneen," due to his peculiar quality of Irish tenor. After he had finished, John Suggs brought out a tin pan from the kitchen, and not singing, only by beating the bottom of the dish, reproduced a perfect imitation of Mr. Blake's locust-like notes.

Mr. Blake and the writer sat side by side until he was called for his turn in the barrage of eloquence, and during this time the two of us joined our voices to the man's sized murmurs of the Agogas. Jack Wilson, sitting next to us, said our participation was awful, but Jack's just jealous. He couldn't carry a note if they tied it on him with policeman's bracelets.

Mr. Richard's Tribute.

Mr. Blake's speaking and our beautiful duet simply rounded out a program that carried countless features. For instance, we recall the tribute paid the members of the Agoga class who sleep beneath "the crosses, row on row," unselfish sacrificers of God's most precious gift that the principles of liberty might cast off the heel of a militaristic autocracy, by A. L. Richards, one of the 165 Agogas, who enlisted in the service of the United States, and one of the many Agogas who threaded their way through the shell-swept trails of the Argonne.

The Sponsors.

Miss Kinney and Miss Warren, the beautiful sponsors of the Agoga class, were present at the celebration, and their pride in the victorious achievement of the team they so splendidly supported through the hard schedule of the winter, was clearly displayed. A. M. Smith, popular teacher of this class of young men, was master of ceremonies, introducing the speakers with an individuality that kept the scores present in gales of laughter. We nominate Mr. Smith as the world's champion master of ceremonies—he's a person every banquet should include.

The Agoga class is composed of young men, who are good Christians and splendid athletes. Being Christians, they are interested in every phase of church activity, and being young they are athletes, to keep strong and clean the bodies God gave them. The class believes in putting things across, be it religions or athletics, and occasion is not recorded when the class, called upon, failed to deliver.

Team Is Going Through The Worst Part of Trip.

Cheer up, folks, the worst of the squalls the Crackers will go through on this road trip will be finished this afternoon, and after that fortune should smile a bit on the efforts of the Frankmen. The Crackers' visits to Little Rock and Memphis have been disastrous, we'll admit, but there seems to be nothing alarming over the prospect for the next few days.

In Little Rock and Memphis the Crackers met disaster because they were outplayed. We say outplayed because it is not our opinion that the locals were outclassed. We have maintained from the first, and we still proclaim from the house tops, that the Travelers and the Chicks have nothing on the Frankmen but a little better luck. With the exception of the game yesterday, the Crackers played as good baseball as did Memphis, and the honors were about even with Elberfeld's players, if we did lose the series, for that matter.

The Atlanta team is trailing along just now because the race was tight when it started the road trip, and because the two teams that were going best were included on the schedule. Man for man, the Travelers don't look as good as the Frankmen, and the same statement applies to the Chicks. They top us in the standing, but the silver lining is going to assert itself sometimes, and anyway, you can't keep a good team down.

The fans are a bit disappointed, but we don't believe the loyal ones have given up hope of seeing a bunting at Ponce de Leon next year. Of course, if the present work of the Chicks and Travelers continues, and the Crackers run along in the same old rut, with the same old breaks of fortune favoring the opposition, we have nothing much to look forward to in the way of pennant prospects. But the chances are that the Crackers will take a new lease on life, and the jaunt to the top place will resume.

Details of Game Called At Walk Miller's Place.

According to an announcement last night by Walk Miller, proprietor of a pool room on Forsyth street, next to the city hall, details of this afternoon's double-header will be called at his establishment, the first game starting over the wires at 2:30 o'clock.

Walk stated that in order to provide amusement for the fans who come early he would have a few of the battlers of his fight stable go through some of their training stunts.

Bunkum Morris Twirled One Inning Yesterday.

Bunkum Morris, "Of Winder, suh," hero of a romantic get-away from the training headquarters of the Crackers at Bay St. Louis, Miss., but who later returned to the fold, made his Southern league debut in the eighth inning of yesterday's game with the Chicks and, according to the press reports, Bunkum acquitted himself right well.

Going in in the eighth, Bunkum was faced with the task of reducing Blades, the Southern league's leading batsman, to a state of perfect submission. Bunkum easily solved this problem by forcing Blades to miss three in quick succession. The next batter was forced to click a weak infield hopper that was snagged by Damrau. Rain intervened at this stage and Bunkum got out his raincoat with the remainder of the team.

Bunkum is a splendid fellow, and has a heart as big as his frame. He was a little homesick in Bay St. Louis, and not being a seasoned traveler, could stand separation from his family no longer, with the result that he tossed his suit case out of a window in the Klock hotel where the Frankmen were quartered, and one dark and stormy night boarded a train for the scenes of his youth. He was forgiven, however, and will probably get a good many chances to show his worth as Charlie Frank shows no disposition to add him to the list of discards.

DOUBLE BILL ENDS SERIES WITH CHICKS

The Crackers and Chicks will play a double bill today, as a fitting farewell to Kauffman's array of ball tossers. The welcome that the Blufftown diamond talent accorded the Crackers was little to their satisfaction, as the first three games were chalked up in favor of McCloskey and company. Thorburn and Boone will probably be Kauffman's hopes against utter annihilation, but there is a possibility that Morris will be used in one of the encounters.

Memphis' twirling staff can hardly be touted as an all-star quintet, and it is more than likely that their best bets have occupied the mound against Atlanta, and that the Cracker willows may be brandished against the weakest hurlers of McCloskey. Brazill has been handicapped by a lame arm, which has impaired his playing to a great extent, although his hitting has not fallen off appreciably.

If Joe Thorburn has his hooks oiled up and in good working condition, he should stage a comeback, and Daniel Boone, with a shutout against Kid Elberfeld's slugging Travelers to his credit, is due for a strong opposition to another Chick victory. It is possible that the war club of Frank Brazill will be out of the game, and in this event it will necessitate some airtight pitching to stem the tide.

Tomorrow, the Atlanta team will shove off for Birmingham to try for better luck against the crew of Molesworth. The Barons are now on the decline, and if it lasts, Cracker stock may yet recuperate. With Morris on the hurling roster, Kauffman's mainstays will not be forced to work too often, and, with another day between their games, the day of rest ought to put them in the form to win a few games for Manager Kauffman.

RUTH PICKS THE YANKS TO COP RACE

BY BABE RUTH, (United Press.)

New York, May 30.—Cleveland still stands out as the club the Yanks have to beat, if they are to win the American league race.

The Cleveland weakness is in the fact that they have only two good pitching. Coveleskie and Bagby are going well, but they cannot carry the burden alone. Coveleskie may ride to the same fall he has taken the last two years—worked to death early in the season, and no good later on.

On the other hand, good pitching is cropping out all along with the Yanks. Backing this pitching up, the Yanks have hammered the western clubs hard. If the St. Louis Browns had the pitching the Yanks are getting they would be a very dangerous club, for they are hitting and playing smart baseball.

Boston felt the power of our artillery last week. They have been going too well to please the figure sharks anyway. I believe the Red Sox to be a good ball club, but not nearly so good as their present percentage shows. The White Sox appear to be out of it.

In making my eleventh home run in Boston Saturday, I got further ahead of the schedule toward breaking the record of last year. I did not have eleven home runs to my credit until July 12, last year.

CUBS MADE FAST CLIMB TO 1st PLACE

New York, May 30.—Chicago's upward climb to first place in the National league after hovering around last position in the early weeks of the season is the outstanding feature of the major league pennant races to date. The Cubs won their eighth straight game today.

Cleveland still retains the lead in the American league despite a falling off from the past pace of the previous week. The New York Americans, which won seven games out of eight last week, mainly through "Babe" Ruth's terrific batting, have advanced to third place, behind Boston. Washington went into fourth place today by winning its sixth straight game, while Chicago was losing to Cleveland.

The steady pitching of Alexander, who has won ten straight games, and Vaughn, with six straigh victories, promises to aid the Chicago Nationals in warding off attacks on its leadership. Cincinnati was the only other National league club able to maintain better than .500 pace last week, winning four out of seven. The world's champions batted hard, but their pitchers were ineffective in many contests.

Although Brooklyn, Boston and St. Louis improved at the bat, the teams failed to give adequate fielding support to their pitchers. Pittsburg and Philadelphia lacked batting power. New York appears unable to get an upward start.

While the Cleveland Americans were busy shifting pitchers toward the end of the week in the hope of victory, the New York Yankees advanced to withing striking distance by four straight victories over Boston, which previously had won six consecutive games. Ruth, of the Yankees, made six home runs during the week, bringing his season total to eleven. The Yankees had little trouble in hitting the Red Sox twirlers, while the New York staff appeared in excellent condition.

The opposition averaged more than six runs a game against Chicago, which seems to be losing its grip on the first division. The White Sox succeeded in administering the first defeat to Bagby, of Cleveland, who had won eight straight from the beginning of the season. Washington wasted few hits and gave able support to its pitchers. St. Louis, whose players are in the midst of a batting slump, lost its seventh consecutive game.

The week's record in each league of games played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors, men left on bases and runs scored by opponents, including games of Saturday, May 29, is as follows:

Columbia Is Still Leading South Atlantic

Columbia, S. C., May 30.—Although Columbia, with Manager Beck missing from the line-up on account of injuries, suffered the most disastrous week of the season, losing four games and winning but two, the champions continue to lead the South Atlantic association by four games.

Greenville remains in second place. Greenville won three games from Spartanburg during the week, but two were thrown out, on Spartanburg's protest that the winners used more than the number of players of experience in a league of higher classification than this. The league rules provide that five such players may be used by each club while Spartanburg successfully presented a claim to President Walsh that Greenville had seven. The league president ordered the two games played over.

Charleston had its best week of the season and the best of any club in the league for the week, winning five and losing but one and pressing Spartanburg for third place after passing Charlotte. Charlotte won two and lost the same number, while Augusta was able to win but one out of six.

DePALMA IS PICKED TO LEAD

By Homer George.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—(Special.)—Everything is set for the running of the international motor sweepstakes at 500 miles Monday. Beautiful weather today and the prediction of equality beautifully weather tomorrow augurs the greatest crowd ever seen at an American sporting event, certainly more than 100,000 persons.

Various causes have cut the field of starters to 24, but these represent the pick of America and France. When the veteran, Barney Oldfield, leads the field around the two-and-a-half-mile brick course, a struggle which is epic will begin. This year the race is for baby cars with small motors, yet capable of 100 miles an hour, and right now I want to make the prediction that the average for the distance will break the record of 89:84, made in 1915 by the much larger machines.

Records Will Smash.

I have been talking little but race since getting here, for that is the sole topic of conversation. I have talked with veteran drivers, young drivers, men who have never missed a race here, and others who have spent much time at the training camps, and this breaking of the record seems the universal opinion. First, there will be less mechanical trouble, and second, fewer stops for tries and equipment. Again, the field will be smaller and a prize of $100 for the winner of each lap will cause all to press a bit.

The one outstanding driver is Ralph De Palma. Ralph is about two miles faster than any driver in the race. And he ought to win. But five times De Palma has had the fastest car here, only to win one time. It ought to be his race this year. He will have to break down or have a lot of trouble not to win. Aside from him, I like dark horses such as Joe Boyer, Eddie Hearne, Jimmy Murphy or Roscoe Sarles, in one of the French-built cars.

Louis Chevrolet, who has the car nearest to De Palma in speed, is suffering from lumbago, and may be forced out of the race early. The French are temperamental, and must be in front to hold their enthusiasm, and they are not fast enough for the first time in history.

It looks like an American victory—possibly driver and cart, but certainly driver.

Daylight Train to Jacksonville via Southern Railway System.

Effective Sunday, May 30, trains 26 and 27 will be operated as solid through trains between Atlanta and Jacksonville via Macon and G. S. & F. with connecting service at Macon for all points between Macon and Brunswick, leaving Atlanta 7:50 a. m., arriving Jacksonville 10:25 p. m.

Cotton Market Gossip

New Orleans, May 30.—Trading in cotton last week revolved around the pending report on the condition of the crop by the government and the tendency was to advance because of very bullish private forecasts of that event. At the same time prevailing weather conditions over the belt were sufficiently good to tone down bullish operations to some extent.

The condition period ended last Tuesday and since then a good part of the belt has experienced weather which the majority of traders think has led to improvement in the crop. The net results of the week's trading were advances of 50 to 66 points, July closing at 37.90 and October at 35.08.

The better tone in the foreign exchange market and somewhat easier money conditions last week encouraged buying to a moderate extent, but this demand was largely offset by renewed talk of short time among New England mills and the continued agitation against high prices in nearly all markets. A somewhat better spot demand was reported in some quarters, but it was not reflected by any material increase in sales at southern spot centers, which the trade accepted as meaning that the inquiry was chiefly for the better grades, which are becoming scarcer than ever.

This week the big event will be the issuance on Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock, of the first condition report of the season by the department of agriculture. It will carry the crop down to May 25 and will compare with 75.6 last year at the same date, 82.3 two years ago, 69.5 three years ago, when a new low record was established, and 78.7 as the ten-year average.

Expectations quite generally are for a report Wednesday that will make a new low record and private forecasts have appeared that were as low as 62.8 per cent of a normal. The average of opinion, however, seems to be around 65, or possibly slightly higher. A forecast of 68.9 appeared to meet the approval of the more conservative element.

As matters stood at the end of last week a report of 70, although far under the ten-year average, would be so much above average expectations that it would cause a decline. Probably it would require figures of 65 or under to cause much of an advance. In the opinion of many traders anything but a very bullish report has been discounted.

After the report is out of the way this week current weather conditions over the belt will probably be the main trading influence.

YOUR COMPLEXION CAN BE MADE WHITE, SOFT AND YOUTHFUL

By the Use of the BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment.

Every woman wishes to appear beautiful. The savage maiden tattoos her skin, fixes rings in her nose and uses other crude ornaments to make herself more attractive. An example of present-day beauty among civilized women is a soft, velvet skin and a radiant complexion.

To improve your complexion, you should not use anything that hides your faded, pimply, blotchy skin. Such applications last only a few hours, and are injurious to the delicate skin tissue in many cases.

You can make your complexion beautiful by removing the faded, dark, sallow, blotchy skin with the BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment, which consists of a creamy ointment and soap. This beauty treatment will not injure the skin and is easy to apply. Before retiring you thoroughly cleanse the skin with BLACK and WHITE Soap; then mix and apply BLACK and WHITE Ointment according to directions.

The BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment will also remove pimples, sun-freckles, insect bites, skin blotches, liver spots and other unsightly blemishes of the skin. Remember that the BLACK and WHITE Beauty Treatment is different from other cosmetics in that it removes—does not cover or hide the blemishes.

You can buy BLACK and WHITE Ointment and Soap at all good drug stores for 25c each a package, or the manufacturers will send both postpaid on receipt of 50c.

You can get a free sample, literature and a BLACK and WHITE Birthday and Dream Book, if you will clip and mail this advertisement to BLACK and WHITE, Box 913, Memphis, Tenn.—(adv.)

DOWNWARD TREND FURTHER EVIDENT IN COMMODITIES

While price changes last week in the principal commodities were not particularly marked, except in a few instances, the movement toward a lower level that was so noticeable week before last was again quite well defined, there being fifty-four recessions in the quotations received by Dun's review, as compared with nineteen advances. Irregularity continued a conspicuous feature in the grain markets, improved transportation facilities stimulating shipments and resulting in rather sharp declines in rye, barley and oats, which contrasted with a substantial recovery in corn, caused by inadequate supplies and an active consumptive demand.

Receipts of dairy products are increasing, but, aside from a reactionary tendency in the best grades of fresh butter and medium-quality eggs, due largely to the reluctance of buyers to pay the prevailing high prices, quotations of these commodities hold relatively firm. Steady buying and receipts not much above requirements created a better feeling in hogs, but beef and sheep were slightly easier. Provisions moved irregularly, but, on the whole, toward a lower level.

The strength of the iron and steel markets was fully maintained, and the general tone of the miscellaneous metals was fairly steady, although tin reflects the continued weakness at London. Increased uncertainty appears in cotton goods, but manufacturers are conservative in granting price concessions, owing to the strong position of the raw material. In hides and allied lines, there is a conspicuous absence of sizeable business, but the weakness of the market is well defined.

SMITH TREADWELL, CHATSWORTH MAN, SLAIN BY VINCENT

Chatsworth, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Smith Treadwell, well-known young business man of this city, was shot and instantly killed by Verner Vincent, a traveling salesman, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, the tragedy occurrin gin Treadwell's garage. Vincent's home is in Cartersville.

There had been some trouble between the two men several days ago, but it was supposed to have been smoothed over. Eye-witnesses state that Vincent entered the garage, walked up to the car in which Tradwell was seated, said "You are the fellow who was going to kill me the other night," and began shooting. Five bullets entered Treadwell's body, one passing through his heart.

Public sentiment here was so strong against Vincent that he was removed from the local jail to Rome early Saturday afternoon. Treadwell is survived by his mother and sister, Mrs. Ida Treadwell and Miss Thelma Treadwell, who live about two miles from town. Vincent has a wife and seven children.

R. P. SPENCER, SR., DIES AT HOME IN COLUMBUS

Thousands of farmers have brighter, happier homes because of Lalley-Light. Why not you?

LALLEY-LIGHT
DOES MORE, DOES IT BETTER

Announcement To Georgia Farmers

THE UNIVERSAL MOTORS CO. OF ATLANTA is glad to announce that they are now State Distributors for Lalley-Light, the crowning achievement in Electric Light and Power Plant Construction for the farm and country home.

Saves the Woman on the Farm

Lalley-Light and Power Has Stood the Test of Time

It has been in successful use on farms and elsewhere for more than ten years. There are many features of Lalley-Light that are both original and exclusive, but none of them embodies any principle in design or application which has not been tried and proven by that severest of all tests---THE TEST OF TIME.

Lalley-Light Homes Are Bright and Cheerful

Night in a Lalley-Light home is bright, and the evening hours are blessed hours of relief and pleasure. The end of a hard day's work then becomes the beginning of a night's gladness. No other one thing can bring more contentment, more comfort or more cheer than the use of Lalley-Light.

Lalley-Light and Power Saves Work on the Farm

Lalley-Light and Power has made man power more valuable on the farm because it saves time and work for the men. It lights the house and barn and other outbuildings. It will run a washing machine, electric fan, electric iron, a fanning mill; pump water for the home and for the stock.

Provides Light for the Barn as Well as for the Home

Lynch-Johnson & Horner, 53 E. Hunter Street, Atlanta, Ga., will retain their local Lalley-Light franchise, and owners as well as prospective buyers are assured that The Universal Motors Co. will co-operate with Lynch-Johnson & Horner to the fullest extent in rendering A-1 service at all times.

SOME TERRITORY STILL OPEN ON THIS VALUABLE PROPOSITION.

Concerning Fairies and Angels

Do you believe in fairies?

We do—and we believe in dreams and visions and push buttons and autonatic farms.

Dreams are the inalienable right of the public; the one luxury which remains unaffected by the law of supply and demand and federal amendments. Every man, woman and child in Georgia has the right to dream his own dream (or hers, as the case may be).

If you cannot dream a satisfactory dream we will do it for you, on a co-operative basis, and our rates are warranted to be below those of Canada.

Why seek cold facts when dreams are at once cheaper and more satisfactory? You sleep while they work.

Farmers Who Drive the Unwilling Mule?

behind the stubborn plow? The rivers are full of water and it is all running down hill. You will find that in Sir Isaac Newton's well-known law of gravitation.

Water always has run down hill and always will run down hill. And yet you keep patiently on, pulling the bell-rope over the down-trodden mule! For shame!

Farmers' Wives, Why Do You Persist?

in rising before daylight and stirring the batter cakes with your own hands? The water keeps on running down hill.

The clouds are full of water and the springs are full of water and so are the creeks and the rivers which find their way to the sea.

Have You a Little Water Power in Your Home?

If not, why not?

Wouldn't you like to turn over in bed at 7 A. M. and press a button and keep the farm going for another 24 hours, while you drive into town to see the movies? Let water do the work.

All You Need Do Is Purchase The River and the land on each side for a few miles each way, and build a dam and a power house and transmission lines and machinery and then you can press the button and let the water plow your fields and plant your crops.

It would cost something, possibly, but don't bother about that. If you don't feel like paying for the river and the dam and the machinery and the power house and the transmission lines, let the State of Georgia be the Angel.

There is hardly a square acre in Georgia where water isn't going to waste—running down hill.

The average farm in Georgia has lost $7,456,723.85 worth of water through the operation of the law of gravitation since Oglethorpe landed somewhere on the coast in the year—we've forgotten the year, but facts are irrelevant. The idea remains the same.

The interest on that $7,456,723.85, compounded semi-annually, would amount to—Well, you'd be rich if you'd saved that water and collected it. Men are short-sighted.

This must stop. We are determined to operate every farm and home in Georgia through a push-button.

Private corporations refuse to do it. They will spend millions to develop water power where there is a city to buy it, but they refuse to run a line to Jim Johnson's farm and rest Jim's tired mule.

They say it would cost $20,000 to build a transformer station to supply Mr. Johnson with $3.00 worth of current a month. What of it? We are not concerned with business details.

We Want Results

The way to get results is to build our own water plants wherever the water runs down hill.

The Legislature should do it. THE LEGISLATURE MUST DO IT. THE LEGISLATURE SHALL AND WILL DO IT.

Who'll pay the bills?

Why, the public. But that's a mere detail, which WE shall take up when we get to it.

The State Should Act

REMEDY OFFERED FOR CAPITALISM

"Collective Ownership" of Factories, Mines, Railroads and Other Agencies Proposed at Socialist Meeting.

Advocacy of substitution of collective ownership" of factories, mines, railroads and all other great means and agencies of production and distribution as the remedy for rule of the "capitalistic groups" which they declared is holding 99 per cent of the working class of the nation in economic slavery, was one of the features of addresses delivered Sunday afternoon at the Debs socialistic mass meeting by Seymour Stedman, candidate for vice president on the socialistic ticket; James O'Neal, associate editor of The New York Call, and Otto Branstetter, national executive secretary of the party.

Other features were attacks on President Wilson and against both the democratic and republican parties, the administration of either of which, they asserted, is "autocracy at home identical with imperialism abroad."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the socialist party, of Atlanta, and its close concluded the visit to this city of the socialist delegation, which arrived Saturday morning to present formal notification to Eugene V. Debs, inmate of the federal penitentiary, that he had again been nominated for the presidency of the United States. An enlarged picture of Mr. Debs, the frame fringed with a border of red, was suspended on the wall above the heads of the speakers.

An audience numbering approximately 350 people heard the speeches of the socialist leaders and applause was frequent. Mr. Oneal, who spoke first, was caustic in his choice of words as he arraigned the president and the capitalistic group. The president he charged with placing a gag on the lips of every man and woman who undertook to exercise free speech during the war, several hundred of whom, including the presidential nominee of the party, are now eking out an existence behind the bars.

"Drags Us Into War."

"In 1917," he asserted, "the man who had been elected on the slogan, 'He kept us out of war,' dragged us into war and placed a gag on the lips of every human being in the country." He then megaphoned his ideals of democracy, continued the speaker. He styled the president the "holy idealist," and suggested to the audience that if a person with the Wilson supertitle should visit the home of any one of them the wise plan would be to lock up the silver spoons—if they had any.

The conception of the capitalistic class during the war, according to the speaker, was that the man who made 100 per cent profit was 100 per cent American; ic a person made less he was a little American, but he said the war developed many super-Americans, who made 5,000 per cent profit and more. "And now they tell us to produce more," he added. "We now propose, if production benefits anybody, to see that it benefits the toiling masses."

Aims of Socialism.

"Socialism," he said, "proposes that all great means and agencies for producing and distributing shall no longer be the property for exploiting the masses of the nation, but shall pass out of the hands of the holders and be co-operatively owned for the welfare and happiness of every human being in the United States."

Mr. O'Neal declared that the country is breaking its pledge "to make the world safe for democracy" by failure to recognize the independence of Ireland and the plea of Egypt and India and other vassal possessions.

He then turned to a defense of the bolsheviki, which he said the newspapers, the politicians, the bankers and the upstart diplomats at Washington had tried to associate always in the public mind with bloodshed. They have erected a boogey man in Russia and called him Bolshevik to fool you."

The speech of Mr. Branstetter, who followed, was brief and consited principally in an attack on what he termed "the master class," and on the democratic and republican parties. He told the voters of the audience that if they wished to continue to submit to exploitation, vote either the democratic or republican ticket. He wound up his speech with an appeal for funds to support the socialist campaign "to put the fear of God into the hearts of the capitalistis class." Ready response met his appeal and a considerable sum was contributed toward the expenses of the campaign.

Utterances of Mr. Steadman, the vice presidential nominee, were more conservative than the remarks of the preceding speakers. He said the socialist party is coming out again after three years of oppression during the war period, and asserted that if the movement didn't contain great truths and the highest ideals it could not make the progress it has made.

He spoke of the crop of American millionaires produced by the war, and said that one of the proposals of the socialist party was to take from these profiteers the rewards they exacted from the people during the war.

The socialist party left Atlanta last night for their respective homes.

BIG GRIFFIN FIRE STILL SMOULDERS; LOSS AT $165,000

Griffin, Ga., May 30.—Firemen were still pouring water tonight on the ruins of the H. V. Kell Wholesale Grocery company house, which was destroyed by flames last night. The loss is estimated at $165,000, partly covered by insurance.

LAUCK'S CHARGES DECLARED UNTRUE BY PACKER SWIFT

Washington, May 30. — (Special.)—L. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., when asked to comment on a statement issued by W. Jett Lauck, said today:

"Swift & Co. has no part in the present controversy in which Mr. Lauck is engaged. However, his statement, unfortunately, recites certain inaccuracies from the federal trade commission report which we feel called upon to correct. A rate of 2 per cent on sales does not yield 36 1-2 per cent on net worth, as claimed by Mr. Lauck. It has yielded Swift & Co. only about 11 per cent on capital employed. This is not profiteering. It must be remembered that wages, profits, supplies, freight, taxes, interest and all other expenses amount to only 15 per cent of our sales, and that we pay out about 85 per cent for our raw material. If a family spent $300 a year, which is above the average, for larger packers' products, less than 7 cents a week would be net profit on the basis of Swift & Co.'s 1919 earnings.

"Mr. Lauck says that we control canned goods and other grocery products. He ignorts the fact that the large packers in competition with each other handled only 3 or 4 per cent of the groceries of the country, and even this small percentage has now been taken away by court decree. We control the price of no commodities. Swift & Co. is in open competition with every other packer, and we handle less than 15 per cent even of the meat supply of the nation.

"The charges that we spent the profit to wreck competitors, and that we padded expenses under cost plus contracts during the war, are untrue. The United States food administration reported that, while they were under its supervision, the profit of the five large packers on meat food products was only 1.76 per cent on each dollar of sales, and only 5.6 per cent on the capital employed. It is unfortunate that Mr. Lauck relied on the old reports of the federal trade commission, which previously have been disproved in detail."

Say Women Having But Little Voice In Nation's Politics

Washington, May 30.—Women will have little voice in choosing presidential candidates, and practically no official part in either of the great national conventions, the national woman's party pointed out today.

Delay in ratification of the suffrage amendment is blamed.

Declaring there will be but 25 women delegates in the republican convention and 69 in the democratic, a statement from the party said:

"The 17,000,000 women eligible to vote for the next president whether or not the federal suffrage amendment is ratified are thus accorded only a 2 per cent representation in the choice of the republican nominee and only a 6 per cent representation in the choice of the democratic candidate, although women from approximately 35 per cent of the total number of persons eligible to vote for president next November.

"Figures compiled by the woman's party also indicate that women have played a comparatively minor part in the selection of delegates to the two conventions."

NOYES HAS RESIGNED RHINE COMMISSION

Paris, May 30.—Pierrepont B. Noyes, American member of the inter-allied Rhineland commission, has resigned that post and his resignation has been accepted in Washington, it was stated here today. All his powers will be taken over by Major General Henry T. Allen, commander-in-chief of the American army of occupation, who will continue likewise in military authority.

This will give the United States single representation in both civil and military affairs in the Rhineland.

Washington, May 30.—Desire to return to his business interests in this country, caused Pierrepont B. Noyes, representative of the state department in the American occupied area in Germany, to resign his post, it was stated officially tonight. Taking over of his duties, which have been largely that of an observer at the meetings of the inter-allied Rhineland commission, by Major General Henry T. Allen, commander of the American forces in Germany, was said to involve no change of policy as regards American occupation.

Relinquishment by Mr. Noyes of his duties was taken in some quarters here as indicating that American officials regard the situation in the American occupied area as having quieted completely.

NEAR RIOTOUS ACTION IN LABOR PARTY MEET

Bad Feeling Created as Editor of "The Negro" Offers Anti-Lynching Plank.

Shenectady, N. Y., May 30.—The labor party, in a tumultuous sessstate convention of the American sion, today adopted a plank declaring that the party cannot accept any other party's indorsement of its candidates, nor indorse the candidates of any other party.

A plank favoring the manufacture of light wines and beer led to a furious debate, which had not been settled when the convention recessed, intending to resume the discussion later in the day. This plank starts with a declaration that the New York legislature has become a "soviet of employers."

Chairman Kohn barely averted riotous action on the floor by refusing to permit an extended debate on the anti-lynching plan offered by H. T. Manton, editor of The New Negro. Manton made an impassioned attack on what he called the prejudices of the white man against the black in proposing this plank.

Denied Right to Reply.

Benjamin Howe, secretary of the community councils of New York, tried to reply to Manton, but was denied the floor amid great uproar.

The matter of designating nominees for governor, state engineer and associate justices of the court of appeal was left to the state committee and the following state ticket was selected.

For lieutenant governor, R. E. Haffey, Rochester; secretary of state, William Auyer, Watertown; comptroller, Mrs. W. J. Fink, Catskill; treasurer, Joseph Cronk, Troy; attorney general, Frank Hukserry, New York; United States senator, Rowe Schneiderman, New York.

Mrs. Fink is the wife of W. J. Fink, now serving a 30-day jail sentence in Pennsylvania, in connection with a "free speech" demonstration. Miss Schneiderman is, according to labor leaders, the first woman ever nominated for the senate, and was nalled today the "Margaret onfield" of the United States.

The resolutions committee late in the afternoon brought in a new plank on prohibition, demanding a popular referendum on the whole question.

Ask Palmer's Impeachment.

The impeachment of Attorney General Palmer for "abominable acts committed by his department in deliberate violation of the constitution," was asked by the party. Still another resolution pledged all candidates to stand for a maximum 44-hour week and an eight-hour day.

Among other resolutions were these:

That the city of New York acquire and operate its transit lines.

That Egypt, India and "other oppressed nations" be given the right of self-determination.

Lynching to be declared a federal crime.

Construction of houses on a non-profit system.

And the party finally calls for "the restoration of free speech," the democratization of schools and the initiative, recall and referendum.

Louisiana Legislature May Act During Week On Suffrage Amendment

Baton Rouge, La., May 30.—The general assembly of the state of Louisiana will either dispose definitely of the suffrage issue during this week or events will so shape themselves as to make it possible for those taking sides on the question of ratification of the Susan B. Anthony amendment to gain conclusive knowledge of their strength in both houses, was the opinion tonight of well-informed followers of developments during the first three weeks of legislative action.

Within the next few days the legislature may:

Ratify the federal suffrage amendment and give to the women of the United States the right to vote in the coming presidential election.

Reject the federal ratification resolution and vote to submit a state suffrage amendment to the people next November, or Kill all suffrage legislation and allow the entire question to be fought out in the constitutional convention next February.

The great effort of the ratification forces as well as the "antis" will be put forth next Wednesday night at the joint senate and house committees on federal relations public hearing on the federal ratification resolution. That there will be favorable report on the resolution is taken for granted.

The real idea behind the hearing, however, according to representatives of both sides, is the plan to present arguments to the members of the legislature, practically all of whom are expected to be present. The hearing will be open to the public, and both sides will send imposing delegations. Mrs. George Bass, of Chicago, democratic national committeewoman, will lead the fighting forces of the ratificationists. Among the prominent anti-ratificationists will be Miss Charlotte Rowe.

No formal program has been arranged by either side, but, following the public hearing, resolutions will be called up whenever one side sees a chance to win.

UKRAINIAN REPUBLIC ASKS U. S. RECOGNITION

Washington, May 30.—Formal request has been filed with the state department for recognition by the United States of the Ukrainian people's republic, Julian Batchinsky, Ukrainian representative in this country, announced today.

The aim of Ukraine is stated in the request to embrace "political liberation for all Ukrainians, consolidation of all free Ukrainians into one state, the erection of a constitutional democratic republic and economic co-operation with neighboring and other states."

FIRE SWEEPS VILLAGE; 1,000 ARE HOMELESS

St. Johns, May 30.—One-half the residents of St. Quentin, N. B., having a population of about 2,000, were homeless tonight as the result of a forest fire which swept through the village Saturday. The property damage is estimated at between $750,000 and $1,000,000. There was no loss of life reported.

The forest fires have been raging on crown lands in Restigouche county for the last ten days. Fanned by a strong wind burning embers were swept into the lumber mill yards of J. E. Michaud, and the first blazes in St. Quentin started there.

The fire quickly spread beyond control and when it had exhausted itself sixty-five dwellings, three mills, two hotels, the Canadian National Railway station, the provincial bank and many business places were in ruins.

Relief trains have been dispatched from St. Leonards and Camp Tellton to bring out the homeless.

Besides the destruction of homes and business property, there was heavy loss in manufactured lumber.

Londonderry Is Swept.

Halifax, N. S., May 30.—Fire swept the main street of the village of Londonderry today, destroying four churches, a school, more than a dozen dwellings and a public hall. There was no loss of life.

The blaze is believed to have been started by sparks from a forest fire at Hardwood Hill, nearby. The village fire was still raging tonight, but is under control.

More than forty families were rendered homeless by fire, which destroyed forty-seven buildings in an area three-quarters of a mile long and a half mile wide. The damage was estimated tonight at between $200,000 and $300,000.

Bit of Flying Glass From an Automobile Cuts Throat of Boy

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—A piece of flying glass from an automobile windshield struck John W. Thurman, 2 1-2-year-old son of T. H. Thurman, in the neck early tonight, severing the jugular vein and causing almost instant death. The automobile in which the boy was riding was struck by a Norwood bus on Highland avenue.

O. K. Houck Dead.

Memphis, Tenn., May 30.—O. K. Houck, aged 58, prominent in business and Masonic circles of this section for a number of years and head of piano and music stores in Memphis and at Nashville, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark., died today in the residence here of his brother, Jesse Houck. The funeral will be held tomorrow. Mr. Houck never married.

FOUR MEN SHOT IN CLASH CAUSED BY LIQUOR RAID

Columbia, S. C., May 30.—Four white men were shot, one probably fatally, at an early hour this morning in Lexington county, when a federal agent and his two aides clashed with two deputy sheriffs, a magistrate, constable and another Lexington county citizen in a liquor raid.

The car in which the federal agent and his companions were riding was struck by thirteen bullets. The wounded men were W. N. Brown, railroad employee; J. W. Ott, federal agent; Willis Neeley, transfer driver, and W. F. Mitchell, sheriff's deputy.

Alvey Dew, magistrate's constable, narrowly escaped, a bullet passing through his hat. Each side claims the other fired the first shots.

A quantity of liquor has been seized in the community where the tragedy occurred, it being alleged that twenty gallons was taken a short time before Friday night's raid. The liquor was unearthed in the woods, where it had been buried in cans and kegs.

EDWARD WILSON DIES AT PRIVATE HOSPITAL

Edward Wilson, chief engineer in charge of the southern district draining the Everglades, died Sunday at a private hospital in Atlanta, following an illness of a few weeks. He was the son of the late Colonel B. J. Wilson, of West End, and was 55 years old at the time of his death. Before taking charge of the Everglades drainage project Mr. Wilson lived at Miami, Fla.

Surviving him are his wife; one daughter, Mary; one son, Alfred, and two sisters, Mrs. John L. Tye and Mrs. Henry Potts, of Atlanta. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the home of his brother-in-law, John L. Tye, of 704 Peachtree street. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

On account of moving from 74 Peachtree street, Flat Iron building, to GRANT BUILDING, corner Broad and Walton streets, THE CONSOLIDATED CITY TICKET OFFICES will close at 12 o'clock noon, SATURDAY, MAY 29TH, and reopen at new location 8:30 A. M. TUESDAY, JUNE 1ST. Railroad tickets, Pullman accommodations and information may be secured at Terminal and Union Stations.

GREEK TROOPS BEGIN TO OCCUPY THRACE

Constantinople, May 30.—Greek troops began the occupation of Turkish Thrace on Friday, and the first trainload has arrived at a point opposite Adrianople.

M. Canellopoulos, the Greek high commissioner at Constantinople, says the occupation so far has been without incident. He added that Bulgarians had made representations to the French that they had suffered indignities at the hands of the Greeks, but that the French commandant declared the complaints were unfounded.

Athens, Greece, May 29.—Greek troops have occupied Dedegatch and Guwvrjina, according to an official communique issued today.

Turks Ask Delay.

Paris, May 30.—The Turkish peace delegation has sent a note to the peace conference asking a further delay, until July 11, to present the delegation's answer to the allies regarding the peace treaty, it was officially announced today.

Although the GMC engine was designed for "thermo-syphon" circulation, a pump is added to insure positive mechanical circulation under the most extreme conditions.
The GMC Radiator is especially designed for truck work. It is of tubular type, so sturdily constructed that it eliminates the necessity of being hung on springs, hydraulic shock absorbers, or other troublesome suspension. A 16-inch fan maintains a strong draft through the radiator and under the engine hood. Pet cocks are conveniently located, so that all water can be drawn off when desired.
